Kennedy Aides Tell Khrushchev Of War Risks

Forcing Berlin Crisis To Bring Grave Danger Of Nuclear Holocaust

WASHINGTON (AP)—Kennedy administration officials are carrying on a calculated campaign to try to persuade Soviet Premier Khrushchev that he is risking grave danger of nuclear war if he forces the Berlin crisis to the brink of military action.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has taken the lead in issuing nuclear war warnings in recent public statements.

Further opportunity for cautionary statements will be offered the administration next week when West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder holds policy talks here with President Kennedy, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and McNamara.

The reasoning behind the drive high officials said, covers these points:

1. The best informed authorities in Washington believe that Khrushchev is planning a new Berlin crisis beginning about a month from now.

2. The gravest danger in such a crisis, if it develops, is that the Soviet leader may not believe even after the repeated statements of Western determination to stand firm in Berlin, that the Western powers actually will fight when the chips are down. He may therefore overplay his hand.

3. The probability is that final decisions on Soviet actions with respect to Berlin are still to be made. Khrushchev has recently been away from Moscow. Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko has been in New York but is expected to return to the Soviet capital next week.

In these circumstances, U.S. policy makers believe that now is the time to try to avoid an over-assessment by Khrushchev of how far he can go in seeking to force a Berlin settlement on his terms.

According to reports known to the White House and State Department, Khrushchev has told a number of Western visitors in recent weeks that he intends to have a Berlin settlement along the line of a Soviet East German peace treaty. In his view this would end the occupation rights of the United States, Britain and France in West Berlin.

The Western powers see Khrushchev's arguments as designed simply to justify a slow motion Communist takeover of West Berlin beginning with the removal of protective presence of U.S., British and French troops.

What the Kennedy administration is once more trying to get across is that Western powers have no intention of removing their troops nor will they admit Soviet troops or U.N. forces as partners or replacements in West Berlin.

Multimillionaire's Grandson Is Poor, Wandering Orphan

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — He said he was Seth French—just a poor orphan who had knocked about the country. He had a hole in his pocket and he borrowed a needle and thread to mend it. He just wanted to complete his education—he said.

Then, when confronted with the facts, young Cyrus Eaton III — grandson of a multimillionaire—broke down and cried.

Yemeni Rebels, Loyalists Each Claim Victory

CAIRO (AP)—Forces of Yemen's rebel regime today were reported battling tribes loyal to the toppled monarchy on the northern, southern and eastern frontiers. Both sides claimed victories.

Informed, non-Egyptian sources in Cairo reported President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic had sent enough planes, troops and tanks into Yemen to insure the victory of the revolution.

Rebel Premier Abdulh Salal claimed monarchist forces attempting to invade from Saudi Arabia in the north were driven back with heavy losses when Yemeni planes went into action, bombing and strafing. Informants said U.A.R. pilots and planes are now based at all main Yemen air fields and are guarded by U.A.R. troops and tanks. They estimated the U.A.R. has 1,500 men in armored troops and airport security forces in Yemen.

Saudi Arabia, arch rival of Nasser's U.A.R., claimed forces loyal to the Yemeni throne were marching on Sana, the capital, from the north, northwest and south. Saudi Arabia backs Prince Saif al Islam al Hassan in his effort to restore the monarchy.

Farm-City Conference Opens in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) Mrs. Viola Armstrong of Indianapolis, Indiana Farm Bureau official, was the speaker today as rural and urban representatives launched Ohio's farm-city activity program for 1962-63 at Ohio State University.

Calling agriculture the basic industry of this country, she said that "we live in an interdependent society; no one is self-sufficient. The sooner we understand this and are willing to serve each other, the stronger will be our communities."

Pope Warns World Chiefs They Must Account to God

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XIII warned the world's leaders today that they "will one day have to account for their actions to God." He appealed to them to "give ear to the anguished cry of 'peace, peace' which rises up to heaven from every part of the world."

"May this thought of the reckoning that they are to face spur them to omit no effort to achieve this blessing, which for the human family is a blessing greater than any other," the pontiff said.

The 80-year-old ruler of the Roman Catholic Church spoke at a special audience for the envoys sent to the Vatican by 85 governments for the opening of the Roman Catholic Church's 21st Ecumenical Council.

With Michelangelo's awesome "Last Judgment" as a backdrop, the pontiff told the envoys assembled in the Sistine Chapel that war today would "mean the destruction of humanity." He called attention to the vast fresco, "the seriousness of which gives one much food for thought," and warned, "We must indeed render an account to God."

Let the leaders of the world, the pontiff said, "continue to meet each other in discussions and reach just and generous agreements that they faithfully observe."

"Let them be ready to make sacrifices that are necessary to save the world's peace," he said.

The Pope's audience was the main activity in the Vatican today. No council session was scheduled, and the 2,700 prelates here for the conclave turned their attention to lining up candidates

Gym Bloomer Compromise Is Reached

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The battle of the shorts ended unexpectedly today when both sides reached a compromise. Sixteen-year-old Judy Rae Bushong showed up for school and said she would wear oversized bloomer-type shorts in gym class at Springfield Township High School.

Judy, a modest daughter of a minister, made it clear that her outfit would cover her knees in her first appearance at school in 14 days. It was not known immediately when she decided to change her mind.

She had steadfastly maintained in the past that it was sinful to wear shorts publicly and refused to bare her knees in gym class. School officials have said it was simply a matter of how far they should go in bending the rules for those who don't like them.

School Supt. Charles L. Rieger sent Judy her final warning Thursday. She was told she must abide by school regulations to wear bloomer-type shorts with the other girls today or be expelled from school permanently. She has been under suspension since Sept. 24.

Her father, the Rev. Herbert I. Bushong, had said he would fight the case to the U.S. Supreme court if necessary and if he could get financial backing for lawyers' fees.

for the 10 commissions, of 24 members each, that will debate the issues before this greatest church meeting in modern times. The council fathers will elect 16 members of each commission. Pope John will pick the rest. The pontiff thus can ensure active participation on the commissions of bishops — such as those from remote regions in Africa and Asia — who cannot line up enough geographical support for election.

Once the commissions are formed, the work of the council will shift into high gear. In the week starting Oct. 21 the prelates will meet five times in plenary sessions.

They will have much to do.

Prior to the opening of the Church's 21st Ecumenical Council, preparatory commissions drew up 70 draft schemes or topics representing abstracts of nearly 9,000 different proposals received in a poll of the world episcopate.

New matters raised in council discussions may also be included on the agenda.

The council is concerned with Christian unity and the place of the Church in this age of enormous scientific, economic and political development. The discussions will touch on every important aspect of life in today's changing world.

As for Moses, the new book says he led the children of Israel out of Egypt through the parted waters of the Sea of Reeds a marshy area near the Red Sea and not far from the present Suez Canal.

It is the first of three scheduled volumes of the Holy Scriptures, commonly known together as the Old Testament. The others—prophets and writings—are to be completed by 1975.

Daytonian Ruled Guilty In Fatal Family Fuss

VERSAILLES, Ind. (AP)—Virgil Bryant, 32, of Dayton, Ohio, has been found guilty of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of his cousin during a family quarrel last spring.

America Shuns Responsibility For Alpha Raids

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has told Britain that this country cannot prevent all anti-Castro shipping raids which might jeopardize British ships in the Cuban trade.

A British statement of concern has brought an American response which seemed, in some respects, to say that the British ships could only proceed in the Cuban trade at their own risk.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln Waite said the matter had been raised with the department by the British Embassy here in connection with the attack some weeks ago by a Cuban exile group on several ships, including the British vessel Newlane.

A Cuban exile group calling itself Alpha 66 claimed it carried out the attacks, and said it has headquarters in Puerto Rico.

Thursday Alpha 66 said it will hit at any shipping headed for Cuba.

Press reports from London earlier today said the British government was disturbed about the threatened campaign against vessels delivering cargoes to the regime of Fidel Castro.

"The British were assured," White said, "that these attacks (specifically the raid on shipping when the Newlane was hit) do not have the sanction of the United States government."

White said, however, that "Cubans reside at many places all around the Caribbean, and the

Indian Army Ordered To Oust Chinese

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru said today that the Indian army has been ordered to drive Chinese Communist troops from Indian territory on the northeast frontier.

Nehru said his government had ordered the army "to free our territory in the northeast frontier."

Fighting erupted on the Himalayan frontier in the northeast on Wednesday.

In the fighting since Wednesday, Nehru estimated the Chinese Communists suffered nearly 100 casualties. This was nearly three times the figure reported by Peiping Thursday and indicated that the battle is continuing.

Red China lodged a "strongest and most serious protest" with the Indian Embassy in Peiping, accusing India of invading Chinese territory and spreading the flames of war.

Nehru spoke to newsmen before taking a plane for a three-day trip to Ceylon. He had consulted with Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon and Foreign Ministry officials on the border crisis Thursday.

Feuding Congress Hands Kennedy Both Victories, Defeats

WASHINGTON (AP)—The feuding and fighting 87th Congress has handed President Kennedy a mixed bag of victories and defeats in his first two years in office.

Administration leaders, claiming a 70 per cent record on adoption of the Kennedy program, declared that the trade expansion bill was enough itself to assure the 87th high marks in history.

They pointed also to the drug regulation bill and the manpower retraining act of this session and the Social Security, housing, minimum wage and depressed areas bills passed last year.

Congress voted to back up Kennedy on any action he might deem necessary on Cuba and Berlin, and in both sessions it gave him authority to call up large numbers of military reservists.

But he did not fare so well on his foreign aid requests. Congress voted just under $4 billion each year; this was $850 million less than he asked in 1961 and more than $1 billion below his request this session.

On civil rights, the President lost on his key proposal aimed at abuses in state literacy requirements on voting. But Congress did submit to the states a constitutional amendment to ban the poll tax in federal elections.

Kennedy was forced to accept a watering down of many of his recommendations to save parts of them.

He struggled long and hard in his attempt to win strict controls over production of feed grains and wheat. In the end he had to take a temporary voluntary program on feed grains and a delay to 1964 for new curbs on wheat.

These were the major bills passed in the 1962 session:

Trade expansion with far-ranging presidential powers to cut tariffs and to work out new economic arrangements with the European Common Market.

Tax revision with a $1-billion business modernization incentive feature and several loophole-closing provisions.

Drug regulation containing new controls on sale and manufacture of prescription drugs.

A $435-million manpower retraining program to try to teach new skills to 1 million jobless workers.

Postal rate increases of $600 million, including a penny rise on letters and airmail, coupled with a $1 billion pay boost for 1.6 million federal workers.

These were important measures enacted in 1961:

An increase in the minimum wage from $1 to $1.25 an hour, plus coverage for 3.5 million more workers.

A $394-million depressed areas bill to try to create new jobs in communities with high, persistent unemployment.

A Social Security measure lowering the retirement age for men to 62 and boosting the monthly check from $33 to $40, and raising widow's benefits 10 per cent.

A $5.6-billion housing bill setting up a new program for middle-income families, authorizing 100,000 additional low-rent public housing units, and carrying $2 billion for urban renewal grants, and $1.2 billion for college dormitory loans.

A highway bill authorizing an additional $11.5 billion to complete the 41,000-mile interstate system by 1972 and levying the needed taxes.

These were the top casualties in the Kennedy program:

The health care program for 16 million persons over 65, to be handled largely under Social Security.

The $2.55 billion aid bill for public grade and high schools. A religious controversy over aid for church schools was a major factor.

The $2,674,000,000 college aid bill.

The $925-million medical education bill.

Three other major education bills—a broadening of the 1958 national defense education act, a $748 million proposal to improve quality of teaching, and an adult education bill aimed at illiteracy. The literacy test bill.

Multimillionaire's Grandson Is Poor, Wandering Orphan

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — He said he was Seth French—just a poor orphan who had knocked about the country. He had a hole in his pocket and he borrowed a needle and thread to mend it. He just wanted to complete his education—he said.

Then, when confronted with the facts, young Cyrus Eaton III—grandson of a multimillionaire—broke down and cried.

"I'm not happy—I want to start a new life," the 16-year-old said. "After 11 years in a private school, I wanted to see what it was like in a public school."

There were several holes in the Seth French story. For example, he claimed to have little education, yet had a detailed knowledge of Latin.

Why Nashville, for a boy running away from a sheltered life of untold wealth?

"I've heard a lot about the city from different people," young Eaton said, "and I especially had heard about West End High School's football team."

He tried to enroll in the school Thursday, watched the team practice and spent the night in the home of a halfback.

Cyrus Eaton II flew into Nashville Thursday night and talked with his runaway son and Dr. Forrest Evans, director of special education for city schools. The boy had been placed in Evans' custody.

"The boy is confused," the father said. "There will be no decision made at present. We will rest tonight, and go back to Ohio and talk things over."

Police officers, school officials and the family pieced the story together like this:

Young Eaton left his home in the suburbs of Cleveland Monday morning, attended one class at Hawken School, a private institution in Gate Mills, Ohio. He returned home, packed a suitcase and left. None of the family was at home when the youth drove off in his automobile.

The boy, a stocky, 5-foot-5 blond, turned up at Nashville's West End High Wednesday.

When he told the Seth French story, school officials said he became suspicious and told him he would have to meet with a committee at another school.

The youngster watched the football team practice and struck up a friendship with John Bethurum, halfback and president of the student body.

After spending the night at the Bethurum home, young Eaton reported for the interview. While Eaton was inside, police towed off his illegally parked car, "their check of the vehicle revealed both Pennsylvania and Ohio tags, food, clothing, an expense record and a prescription from a Northfield, Ohio, pharmacy that identified the boy as Eaton. A police call to his parents confirmed the identity.

New Jewish Bible Translation Brings Startling Changes

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "When God began to create the heaven and earth," begins the new Jewish Bible in one of several striking changes of the book, the first ever translated into modern English directly.

The new Bible, known as "the Torah, the five books of Moses," which will be published Jan. 28, says Moses didn't really cross the Red Sea.

It revises the Third Commandment to condemn perjury, not profanity of God's name.

Dr. Harry M. Orlinsky, editor-in-chief of a committee of Bible scholars who worked eight years on the $250,000 project, said Thursday in announcing the new book that the most striking change is in the revision of the Third Commandment.

Formerly, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain," it now reads, "You shall not swear falsely by the name of the Lord your God for the Lord will not clear one who swears falsely by His name."

The old interpretation improperly implied an injunction against profanity, said the editors, where as the Hebrew reveals the commandment as concerned with perjury.

Weather Kills Series Game

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick today postponed the sixth game of the World Series between the San Francisco Giants and the New York Yankees until Saturday noon, PDT, because of rain and wet grounds.

Frick made his decision at 8:41 a. m., after a brief tour of the soggy turf of Candlestick Park, home field of the Giants.

It was raining when Frick made his inspection tour, and winds of 40 to 60 miles an hour were raging through the area, a point of land in San Francisco Bay.

The seventh game of the series, if it is necessary, will be played Sunday at noon.

The Yankees lead the series three games to two.

in such a way that that it eliminates the inaccurate implication that eternity began when God made the earth. The old version, published in 1917, started, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth."

As for Moses, the new book says he led the children of Israel out of Egypt through the parted waters of the Sea of Reeds a marshy area near the Red Sea and not far from the present Suez Canal.

The Torah, containing Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy, will be published by the Jewish Publication Society of America, a non-profit education institution. It is the first of three scheduled volumes of the Holy Scriptures, commonly known together as the Old Testament. The others—prophets and writings—are to be completed by 1975.

Expulsion Urged For Negro Taunts

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The dean of the University of Mississippi law school, Robert J. Farley, said today students at Ole Miss who continue to taunt James H. Meredith should be expelled.

Dean Farley, in an interview said the law school faculty has recommended to the university administration that expulsion of all students who have been active participants in the riots caused by the admission of Meredith, a Negro, to the formerly all-white school.

Farley said the number of students who participated in the riots was small.

"Few members of the faculty really wanted Meredith in the university, realizing the results," Farley said, "but at the same time we all knew he had a perfect right to enroll."

VERSAILLES, Ind. (AP)—Virgil Bryant, 32, of Dayton, Ohio, has been found guilty of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of his cousin during a family quarrel last spring.

Charged with first-degree murder, Bryant Thursday was convicted of the lesser crime after the Ripley County Common Pleas Court jury deliberated about six hours.

America Shuns Responsibility For Alpha Raids

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has told Britain that this country cannot prevent all anti-Castro shipping raids which might jeopardize British ships in the Cuban trade.

A British statement of concern has brought an American response, which seemed, in some respects, to say that the British ships could only proceed in the Cuban trade at their own risk.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said the matter had been raised with the department by the British Embassy here in connection with the attack some weeks ago by a Cuban exile group on several ships, including the British vessel Newlane.

A Cuban exile group calling itself Alpha 66 claimed it carried out the attacks, and said it has headquarters in Puerto Rico.

Thursday Alpha 66 said it will hit at any shipping headed for Cuba.

Press reports from London earlier today said the British government was disturbed about the threatened campaign against vessels delivering cargoes to the regime of Fidel Castro.

"The British were assured," White said, "that these attacks (specifically the raid on shipping when the Newlane was hit) do not have the sanction of the United States government."

White said, however, that, "Cubans reside at many places all around the Caribbean, and the

Indian Army Ordered To Oust Chinese

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru said today that the Indian army has been ordered to drive Chinese Communist troops from Indian territory on the northeast frontier.

Nehru said his government had ordered the army "to free our territory in the northeast frontier."

Fighting erupted on the Himalayan frontier in the northeast on Wednesday.

In the fighting since Wednesday, Nehru estimated the Chinese Communists suffered nearly 100 casualties. This was nearly three times the figure reported by Peiping Thursday and indicated that the battle is continuing.

Red China lodged a "strongest and most serious protest" with the Indian Embassy in Peiping, accusing India of invading Chinese territory and spreading the flames of war.

Nehru spoke to newsmen before taking a plane for a three-day trip to Ceylon. He had consulted with Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon and Foreign Ministry officials on the border crisis Thursday.

Ohio Charters Decline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown reported today that there were 160 fewer new Ohio business incorporations during the first nine months of 1962 than a similar period last year.

Feuding Congress Hands Kennedy Both Victories, Defeats

WASHINGTON (AP)—The feuding and fighting 87th Congress has handed President Kennedy a mixed bag of victories and defeats in his first two years in office.

Administration leaders, claiming a 70 per cent record on adoption of the Kennedy program, declared that the trade expansion bill was enough itself to assure the 87th high marks in history.

They pointed also to the drug regulation bill and the manpower retraining act of this session and the Social Security, housing, minimum wage and depressed areas

bills passed last year.

Congress voted to back up Kennedy on any action he might deem necessary on Cuba and Berlin, and in both sessions it gave him authority to call up large numbers of military reservists.

But he did not fare so well on his foreign aid requests. Congress voted just under $4 billion each year; this was $850 million less than he asked in 1961 and more than $1 billion below his request this session.

On civil rights, the President lost on his key proposal aimed at abuses in state literacy requirements on voting. But Congress did submit to the states a constitutional amendment to ban the poll tax in federal elections.

Kennedy was forced to accept a watering down of many of his recommendations to save parts of them.

He struggled long and hard in his attempt to win strict controls over production of feed grains and wheat. In the end he had to take a temporary voluntary program on feed grains and a delay to 1964 for new curbs on wheat.

These were the major bills passed in the 1962 session: Trade expansion with far-ranging presidential powers to cut tariffs and to work out new economic arrangements with the European Common Market.

Tax revision with a $1-billion business modernization incentive feature and several loophole-closing provisions.

Drug regulation containing new controls on sale and manufacture of prescription drugs. A $435-million manpower retraining program to try to teach new skills to 1 million jobless workers.

Postal rate increases of $600 million, including a penny rise on letters and airmail, coupled with a $1 billion pay boost for 1.6 million federal workers.

These were important measures enacted in 1961:

An increase in the minimum wage from $1 to $1.25 an hour, plus coverage for 3.5 million more workers.

A $394-million depressed areas bill to try to create new jobs in communities with high, persistent unemployment.

A Social Security measure lowering the retirement age for men to 62 and boosting the monthly check from $33 to $40, and raising widow's benefits 10 per cent.

A $5.6-billion housing bill setting up a new program for middle-income families, authorizing 100,000 additional low-rent public housing units, and carrying $2 billion for urban renewal grants, and $12 billion for college dormitory loans.

A highway bill authorizing an additional $11.5 billion to complete the 41,000-mile interstate system by 1972 and levying the needed taxes.

These were the top casualties in the Kennedy program:

The health care program for 16 million persons over 65, to be handled largely under Social Security.

The $2.55 billion aid bill for public grade and high schools. A religious controversy over aid for church schools was a major factor.

The $2,674,000,000 college aid bill.

The $925-million medical education bill.

Three other major education bills—a broadening of the 1958 national defense education act, a $748 million proposal to improve quality of teaching, and an adult education bill aimed at illiteracy.

The literacy test bill.

Standby powers to cut taxes to fight economic recessions.

Creation of an urban affairs department.

The $500-million mass transit bill.

Other legislation passed this year included:

The $100-million United Nations loan.

Creation of a commercial corporation for development of a communications satellite system under private enterprise.

Authority for a $900-million emergency public works program to create jobs in distressed communities.

A $308-billion temporary public debt limit, an all-time high.

This year's prize list will include five places instead of three. First prize for all classes, except the float class, will be $5. Other prizes are $4, $3, $2, and $1. Ribbons will also be awarded to winners.

A change has been made in the Horse and Pony Classes. A class has been added for horses and ponies without tack which will permit small children to lead their entry in the parade. Judging in this class will be on appropriate dress and grooming. There is also a class for mounted riders.

Cornfield Fire Is Doused by Williamsport FD

The Williamsport Volunteer Fire Department yesterday extinguished a blaze in a cornfield on the Allen Hoover farm just north of Darby Creek on Route 104.

The blaze was caused when corn husks on the motor of the corn picker were ignited and fell to the ground.

The fire was extinguished before it damaged the tractor or picker, however the wind whipped the fire through the corn field, according to Warren Straley, Pickaway County deputy sheriff.

Straley reported it was difficult to estimate damage. He said the fire left most of the corn standing, burning the leaves on the stalks and weed trash in the field. Some of the ears were damaged.

Taft Levels New Blast At Kennedy Actions

CLEVELAND (AP)—State Rep. Robert Taft Jr. said here Thursday night President Kennedy had failed to take the American people into his confidence on the Communist buildup in Cuba.

The Republican candidate for congressman - at large said at a fund-raising dinner in Lakewood that the election of Republicans to Congress would curb deficit spending by the federal government and give fuller exposure to scandals such as the Billie Sol Estes case.

America Shuns

United States cannot assume responsibility for acts initiated by Cuban exiles who have left from points not under United States jurisdiction.

In London, the British had warned today then government would take a very serious view of any attacks on Cuba-bound British ships.

The Foreign Office earlier disclosed that the U.S. State Department has been approached, presumably to help explain last month's attack in a Cuban port.

The British have not said so officially but privately assert that Alpha 66 operates from U.S. territory using largely U.S. equipment. In that sense London takes the view that the American administration could be held at least partly responsible for any illegal activities by the exile group.

Alpha 66, led by Antonio Veciana from a Puerto Rican headquarters, announced Thursday it was declaring war on all merchant ships carrying supplies to Fidel Castro's Cuba. Earlier this week the organization claimed raid on a Cuban port.

If British merchantmen on the Cuba run had to go through a gauntlet of attacks by Alpha 66 raiders, there is little doubt the government would be pressed to provide naval protection.

Stock Market Prices Soften

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices began to soften early this afternoon in slow Columbus Day trading.

Fractional losses predominated over gains among key stocks as the list started to shift from a fairly even balance to a slight decline.

Many stocks were unchanged and there was no particular selling pressure.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 218.5 with industrials and rails unchanged and utilities off 2.

Losses of some pivotal chemicals and utilities began to depress the list in the afternoon. Some of the volatile "growth" issues took sharp losses.

IBM was down about 4 points in a continued slide. Burroughs and National Cash Register lost around a point each.

Weary Congress To Attempt To Reach Adjournment Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 87th Congress—its ranks dwindling almost by the hour—sends its rear guard in a weary, all-out charge toward final adjournment today.

Only three bills of any importance were still to be cleared out of the way, and Senate and House leaders were hopeful — but not burning with confidence — that they would be wrapped up by late afternoon or tonight.

Lausche Loses Toledo Backing

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Asserting that Ohioans "deserve better representation than they have been getting from their senior senator," the Blade has endorsed John Marshall Briley over incumbent Sen. Frank J. Lausche.

In an editorial Thursday, the Blade described Briley as unusually forthright and articulate and added: "This is such a refreshing change from the fence-straddling, issue - dodging double-talk Ohioans have been conditioned to expect from his opponent. . . that they are paying more attention to this contest."

The Blade, which is politically independent, has not given its endorsement to Lausche since 1950, when the Cleveland Democrat was running for his third term as governor. In 1958 the newspaper endorsed Sen. Stephen Young, Democrat, against the then incumbent John Bricker.

United States cannot assume responsibility for acts initiated by Cuban exiles who have left from points not under United States jurisdiction.

In London, the British had warned today then government would take a very serious view of any attacks on Cuba-bound British ships.

The Foreign Office earlier disclosed that the U.S. State Department has been approached, presumably to help explain last month's attack in a Cuban port.

The British have not said so officially but privately assert that Alpha 66 operates from U.S. territory using largely U.S. equipment. In that sense London takes the view that the American administration could be held at least partly responsible for any illegal activities by the exile group.

Alpha 66, led by Antonio Veciana from a Puerto Rican headquarters, announced Thursday it was declaring war on all merchant ships carrying supplies to Fidel Castro's Cuba. Earlier this week the organization claimed raid on a Cuban port.

If British merchantmen on the Cuba run had to go through a gauntlet of attacks by Alpha 66 raiders, there is little doubt the government would be pressed to provide naval protection.

Stock Market Prices Soften

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices began to soften early this afternoon in slow Columbus Day trading.

Fractional losses predominated over gains among key stocks as the list started to shift from a fairly even balance to a slight decline.

Many stocks were unchanged and there was no particular selling pressure.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 218.5 with industrials and rails unchanged and utilities off 2.

Losses of some pivotal chemicals and utilities began to depress the list in the afternoon. Some of the volatile "growth" issues took sharp losses.

IBM was down about 4 points in a continued slide. Burroughs and National Cash Register lost around a point each.

Weary Congress To Attempt To Reach Adjournment Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 87th Congress—its ranks dwindling almost by the hour—sends its rear guard in a weary, all-out charge toward final adjournment today.

Only three bills of any importance were still to be cleared out of the way, and Senate and House leaders were hopeful — but not burning with confidence — that they would be wrapped up by late afternoon or tonight.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana summed it up by saying adjournment should be possible today, but "I would not bet on it."

Both houses were skating on thin ice as far as a quorum was concerned. The House produced more than half of its membership Thursday, but the Senate has not risked a roll call this week. It always presumes a quorum to be present unless questioned.

The reason for the low attendance is that many members have hustled home to campaign for the Nov. 6 congressional elections.

There was a brief flicker of hope that a shop would close up Thursday night after the prolonged and bitter row over the agriculture money bill was settled.

This hope was crushed by a stubborn controversy over the bill authorizing future rivers and harbors and flood control projects, the water-projects measure.

House and Senate conferees will try again to iron out their differences over the bill, after two previous fruitless sessions.

The Senate version of the measure authorizes more than $4 billion worth of projects, the House bill $2.2 billion.

Passage of this legislation is not essential, and there has been talk it might be put over until next year. But the more than 200 projects involved have so much political appeal in an election year that strenuous efforts are being made to compromise it.

Also remaining were two appropriations measures needed to run the government in the current financial year.

One, a final clean-up supplemental, passed the Senate Thursday night carrying $550 million as compared with $404 million voted by the House. Conferees were to meet to reconcile the two versions.

The other money bill to be cleared is the $5-billion public works measure which was agreed to in conference several days ago but has been held up pending action on the supplemental.

The $5,487,029,500 Agriculture Department appropriations bill was sent to President Kennedy late Thursday after a row between Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., and the House was settled by a compromise.

Russell finally won out in his demand for funds for six research laboratory projects at Sidney, Mont.; Mandan, N.D.; Watkinsville, Ga.; Tucson, Ariz.; Byron, Ga.; and Carbondale, Ill.

But he had to give up on a peanut marketing research facility proposed for Dawson, Ga., and agree to accept only $4.9 of the $25 million the Senate voted for farm research.

Both branches also cleared to the White House the $2.3-billion highway financing bill for the next two years.

Rhodes Warns On Confidence

Election Not in Bag, GOP Workers Told

CLEVELAND (AP) — "Over-confidence is our great unseen obstacle in this campaign," James A. Rhodes, Republican candidate for governor, told a political gathering here.

"Don't forget that no one is elected until 6:30 Nov. 6," Rhodes said at a banquet sponsored by the Ripon Club and the Republican Nationalities Committee of Cuyahoga County.

"We Republicans have a tendency in Ohio to follow polls," he said. "In 1948 we stopped working a week ahead of time, and Thomas E. Dewey lost Ohio by less than one vote per precinct."

Rhodes said property owners are bearing a disproportionate share of the load for financing schools. "Owners of real and personal property are now bearing 70 per cent of the financing load, while the state is bearing only about 30 per cent," he declared.

"This load must and will be equalized. I shall make the necessary recommendations to accomplish this end," he said.

Education and unemployment are the two main problems facing the state, he asserted.

"We must put our 200,000 jobless adults to work so that they can become productive citizens," Rhodes continued.

Rhodes said schools will need an outlay of an additional $120 million to $130 million over the next biennium.

John Marshall Briley, GOP candidate for U.S. senator, suggested the formation of a joint congressional committee on captive nations to help put the western world "on the offensive against communism."

The western world some day "will have to go on the offensive against communism," he said. "I hope the United States leads that offensive."

4 Fugitives Said Headed For Ohio

ADRIAN, Mich. (AP)—Lenawee County sheriff's deputies say they think four fugitives who held up the parents of one of the escaped prisoners Thursday fled into Ohio.

Deputies said Neil Hannewald, 21, and three companions, all escapees from the Kansas State Prison, held up his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hannewald, at their home near here. Officers said the men fled in an auto with $111 taken from the elder Hannewald.

Roadblocks were set up around this area and in Ohio Thursday and extra road patrols continued today. The latest report, a deputy said, was that the fugitives had fled into Ohio.

The deputies said Neil Hannewald, serving a term for robbery of a Kansas supermarket, and his companions escaped from the prison at Hutchinson, Kan., Wednesday.

The companions were identified as Austin Shannon, 24, serving a term for robbery; Glen Stutsman, 32, serving a term for forgery; and Ira Mendell, 23, serving a term for grand larceny.

Officers said the four apparently stole an auto and drove directly to the Hannewald farm home one mile south of here. The Hannewald couple was not injured.

SAYS RED NUCLEAR SUBMARINES NEAR CUBA—Holding a photo of a Russian submarine believed outfitted with nuclear missile weapons, Rep. Michael A. 260-Subscriber Phone Firm Still Active in Butlerville

BUTLERVILLE, OHIO (AP) — Time turns back a page for telephons in this Butler County village where the operator's cheerful "number please?" still holds sway.

The small community telephone system—like the general store—is nearly a thing of the past, yet Harlan Telephone Co., with only 260 subscribers, operates well in the black.

"It's not the moneymaker some people think it is," says owner Art Leisk, "but it does pay its way and make a substantial profit."

The heart of the system is the switchboard and control panel in one room of a private home near Ohio 132. The switchboard is Army surplus.

When a subscriber wants to make a call, lifting the receiver turns on a switchboard over the plug which the operator hooks in to get the number.

However, the system will give way to modernization. Leisk says, "we are changing over to dial next year, and not only that, but we're going into direct distance dialing."

Leisk now uses five operators for around the clock manning of the switchboard, but after the dialing system goes in, he and his wife can take care of the duties.

Leisk's son, a high school student, is also a trained lineman who helps his father with line repair.

"The only time we have to have additional people is when we have a bad storm," said Leisk. "Every time we have a bad electrical storm, many of our telephones are knocked out."

"One reason for that is because many of the phones have not been grounded. When I came here not one phone in the entire system was grounded. I've got about 60 per cent of them grounded now." He said last winter's ice storm cost him over $5,000 in line and pole repairs, since contractors had to be brought in to help get the system working again.

However, Leisk wasn't too happy with the outside line crew's work. He pointed to a telephone pole and said:

"See them chunks gouged out that pole. That line crew...they cut these chunks out when they climbed my pole."

"Destroys the pole. I use a ladder instead."

REPORTS ON HANNA—Testifying before the Senate Stockpiling sub-committee in Washington, D.C., W. A. Marting, president of Hanna Mining Co., said the firm's stockpile profits were "larger," but "not a great deal larger" than its earnings on commercial sales. Controlling stockholder in the company is George M. Humphrey, former secretary of the Treasury.

DiSalle Deplores Crime Repeats

Rehabilitation Failure Rate Said Too High

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle says the fact that so many prisoners in state penal institutions are repeat offenders is "shocking proof that we aren't doing the job" in rehabilitating criminals and juvenile delinquents.

Inmates of adult penal institutions have an average sixth grade education and "15 per cent are functional illiterates," the governor said in a campaign speech Thursday night.

He said the picture is even more shocking in juvenile institutions. "At Boys' Industrial School, a survey taken when the population totaled 690 showed only four high school graduates. And more than half of the boys had educational experiences ranging up from the seventh through the ninth grades."

"Is it any wonder they wind up in trouble?"

He blamed the "educational void" for the high instance of repeaters in penal institutions.

"At Mansfield, 28 per cent of the inmates served a term in the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster."

"In our adult penal institutions, 29 per cent of the inmates got some of their 'education' at either Lancaster or Mansfield, and at the London Correctional Institution 65 per cent of the inmates are repeaters," he said.

In Columbus Thursday, the governor issued a statement outlining a program to attack mental illness, which he termed the "number one public health problem of today."

He called for the addition of 1,500 trained personnel to state hospital staffs, an increased patient food budget and "some sort of hospitalization insurance for those who are stricken with mental illness."

Ohio River Fixup Urged

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Ohio Valley Improvement Association wants Congress to speed up its modernization of the Ohio River.

Delegates at the group's annual conference Thursday backed a resolution urging a deadline of 10 years for improvements, instead of the current target date of 15-17 years.

The group also opposed a suggested federal tax on diesel fuel, used by commercial towboats on the river.

Improvements currently underway on the Ohio under a $147 million program for fiscal 1962 include construction of high level dams to take the place of older, more numerous lower-level dams, plus improvements in flood control, reservoirs, boating and recreation facilities.

The meeting ends today.

Today is Friday, Oct. 12, the 285th day of 1962. There are 80 days left in the year. Today is Columbus Day.

Today's highlight in history:

On this day in 1492, a cannon shot from the Pinta, of Christopher Columbus' fleet, signaled that the lookout had sighted what is now Watlings Island in the Bahamas. Columbus took possession of the new world in the name of the king and queen of Spain and named the island San Salvador.

On this date:

In 1646, Dunkirk was captured by French and Dutch troops.

In 1773, the first state hospital for the insane in America was opened in Williamsburg, Va.

In 1870, Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee died at Lexington, Va.

In 1936, railway passengers reached Paris from London without changing cars for the first time in history when an English Channel ferry service was opened.

In 1960, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev pounded his desk with his shoe in an angry tirade against the West during a United Nations session in New York.

'Surplus' Sign Plagues Democrats

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Butler County Democrats had a few embarrassing moments after they opened their campaign headquarters on Court Street.

They filled its large windows with posters and candidates' pictures—and then someone called their attention to the boldly lettered "government surplus" above the window.

The place had been used formerly as a surplus store. But the Democrats rose to the challenge quickly—and hung a large sign over the advertising message.

Youth, 20, Convicted In Fatal Beating

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Louis C. Rowlands, 20, has been convicted of first-degree murder in the bludgeoning slaying July 20 of Rudolph Girardini in Alliance. A Common Pleas Court jury recommended mercy Thursday, meaning a life sentence.

Rowlands and two other Canton men—Melvin Schrader, 19, and Lacey Copeland, 28—were accused of breaking into the home of Girardini and beating him to death.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower could hardly get along so well personally if they said to each other privately what they've been saying publicly about each other's administration.

Yet what they've been saying—a kind of taunting—has been much too mild to quicken pulses, including their own, particularly since what they say sounds like what they said in the 1960 campaign.

Even if they used flamethrowers, they probably couldn't light a fire under this year's campaign, pretty dull as a whole, when the country appears complacent and international danger seems no more imminent than usual.

Kennedy, urging election of even more Democrats to a Congress where now they far outnumber Republicans, has been complaining, as he did in the past, about the unfinished business bundle left him by the Eisenhower administration.

And Eisenhower, trying to get more Republicans into Congress, has looked irritated but hardly angry about the things Kennedy and the Democrats have been saying. And he responds just about the same way he has in the past.

He says he's "sick and tired" of people telling Americans his eight-year administration didn't accomplish much.

By this kind of nameless and generalized attack, the least that could be expected of a couple of politicians in a colorless campaign, neither is really damaging the relationship which has existed between them.

Kennedy didn't attack Eisenhower personally in 1960, and he isn't doing it now. Instead, since becoming President, he has sought out the older man to talk things over when unpleasant international situations developed.

This personal relationship must have a muffling, perhaps even a baffling, effect on what otherwise would be a natural instinct for them to go after each other since in a political campaign nobody needs a license to shoot a tiger.

So far in this campaign the fiercest thing Eisenhower seems to have thought of saying was to deride "callow youth," meaning the Kennedy administration.

And it was hardly electric when he warned against the notion that this "clique of young, so-called brilliant men have any magic formula through which we will live and prosper." He said he was tired of their "boastful and brassy words."

This is hardly the kind of language that can trigger an anti-Democratic frenzy.

Kennedy, while praising this

Findlay Flood Control Plan Given Approval

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers has tentatively approved a flood control plan for Findlay, often hit by River.

About two-thirds of the more than $12 million cost would be paid by the federal government, one-third by the city. The Findlay City Council now must decide whether it will spend that amount.

Democratic-run Congress, blamed the Republicans for chopping up his programs and conveniently ignored how much damage many of his own Democrats had done him when they teamed up with Republicans.

"No Congress in our time," he said, "has had a more exceptional two years of positive and progressive accomplishment than the Democratic 87th Congress."

It would be natural if voters, hearing this, wondered why Kennedy is so anxious to fill Congress with even more Democrats if the ones already there were able to accomplish so much over Republican opposition.

It's a likely guess, when this campaign is over, Kennedy and Eisenhower will be talking to each other on the telephone or strolling down a walk in Gettysburg some day when things which have nothing to do with politics get rough.

Demonstrating new '63 Chevrolet truck features the hard way!

When we came to a river we got wet. This river bed was paved with rocks the size of melons. What a test for new light- and heavy-duty suspension systems this was!

Conventional light-duty units have coiled spring independent front suspension—easier on truck, load and driver.

Users of new conventional medium- and heavy-duty units who have to operate in close quarters are going to like the narrower front ends (up to 7 inches).

New engines, suspensions, frames and narrower front ends show their stuff on Mexico's tough Baja Run!

With months of proving-ground tests under their belts, why did new Chevrolet trucks take on the rugged Baja (bah'bah) Peninsula?

This is the toughest line of trucks Chevrolet has ever built. Sending them over the most punishing terrain in North America (a road totally unlike the fine highways on the Mexican mainland) was double proof of this fact. Frames, engines, suspension systems were subjected to stresses far greater than trucks normally encounter. You can be sure that trucks that can handle this kind of beating can handle any kind of work.

Youth, 20, Convicted In Fatal Beating

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Louis C. Rowlands, 20, has been convicted of first-degree murder in the bludgeoning slaying July 20 of Rudolph Girardini in Alliance. A Common Pleas Court jury recommended mercy Thursday, meaning a life sentence.

Rowlands and two other Canton men—Melvin Schrader, 19, and Lacey Copeland, 28—were accused of breaking into the home of Girardini and beating him to death.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower could hardly get along so well personally if they said to each other privately what they've been saying publicly about each other's administration.

Yet what they've been saying—a kind of taunting—has been much too mild to quicken pulses, including their own, particularly since what they say sounds like what they said in the 1960 campaign.

Even if they used flamethrowers, they probably couldn't light a fire under this year's campaign, pretty dull as a whole, when the country appears complacent and international danger seems no more imminent than usual.

Kennedy, urging election of even more Democrats to a Congress where now they far outnumber Republicans, has been complaining, as he did in the past, about the unfinished business bundle left him by the Eisenhower administration.

And Eisenhower, trying to get more Republicans into Congress, has looked irritated but hardly angry about the things Kennedy and the Democrats have been saying. And he responds just about the same way he has in the past.

He says he's "sick and tired" of people telling Americans his eight-year administration didn't accomplish much.

By this kind of nameless and generalized attack, the least that could be expected of a couple of politicians in a colorless campaign, neither is really damaging the relationship which has existed between them.

Kennedy didn't attack Eisenhower personally in 1960, and he isn't doing it now. Instead, since becoming President, he has sought out the older man to talk things over when unpleasant international situations developed.

This personal relationship must have a muffling, perhaps even a baffling, effect on what otherwise would be a natural instinct for them to go after each other since in a political campaign nobody needs a license to shoot a tiger.

So far in this campaign the fiercest thing Eisenhower seems to have thought of saying was to deride "callow youth," meaning the Kennedy administration.

And it was hardly electric when he warned against the notion that this "clique of young, so-called brilliant men have any magic formula through which we will live and prosper." He said he was tired of their "boastful and brassy words."

This is hardly the kind of language that can trigger an anti-Democratic frenzy.

Kennedy, while praising this

Democratic-run Congress, blamed the Republicans for chopping up his programs and conveniently ignored how much damage many of his own Democrats had done him when they teamed up with Republicans.

"No Congress in our time," he said, "has had a more exceptional two years of positive and progressive accomplishment than the Democratic 87th Congress."

It would be natural if voters, hearing this, wondered why Kennedy is so anxious to fill Congress with even more Democrats if the ones already there were able to accomplish so much over Republican opposition.

It's a likely guess, when this campaign is over, Kennedy and Eisenhower will be talking to each other on the telephone or strolling down a walk in Gettysburg some day when things which have nothing to do with politics get rough.

Findlay Flood Control Plan Given Approval

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers has tentatively approved a flood control plan for Findlay, often hit by River.

About two-thirds of the more than $12 million cost would be paid by the federal government, one-third by the city. The Findlay City Council now must decide whether it will spend that amount.

Demonstrating new '63 Chevrolet truck features the hard way!

When we came to a river we got wet. This river bed was paved with rocks the size of melons. What a test for new light- and heavy-duty suspension systems this was!

Conventional light-duty units have coil-spring independent front suspension—easier on truck, load and driver.

Users of new conventional medium- and heavy-duty units who have to operate in close quarters are going to like the narrower front ends (up to 7 inches).

New engines, suspensions, frames and narrower front ends show their stuff on Mexico's tough Baja Run!

With months of proving-ground tests under their belts, why did new Chevrolet trucks take on the rugged Baja (bah'bah) Peninsula? This is the toughest line of trucks Chevrolet has ever built. Sending them over the most punishing terrain in North America (a road totally unlike the fine highways on the Mexican mainland) was double proof of this fact. Frames, engines, suspension systems were subjected to stresses far greater than trucks normally encounter. You can be sure that trucks that can handle this kind of beating can handle any kind of work.

Chris Columbus Record Stands

Perhaps Christopher Columbus was not the first explorer to discover America. The honor is frequently credited to other parties of exploration which are believed to have reached these shores several hundred years before Columbus, and one of which may have penetrated as far inland as Minnesota.

But if they were here, nothing came of their efforts, and history does not record the date they arrived.

Whether the world was not ready to profit by the explorations of the others or whatever the reason, settlement of this continent by Europeans dates from the arrival of Columbus in 1492. Civilization was crude then and man had little except natural resources, in the use of which he was anything but adept, for his food, abode and clothing. Some of the earliest settlers starved to death in a land gifted with unimaginable natural resources.

Columbus could not have envisioned a day when the land he discovered would feed a large part of the world and provide armament for its wars. Great inventions of today did not exist in the wildest imagination in Columbus' time. If the land he first sighted in 1492 has not developed its greatest possibilities, it is because those who followed in the footsteps of the Great Discoverer lacked his vision.

Asking for Trouble

Apparently Premier Khrushchev wants President and Mrs. Kennedy to visit Russia in the near future. In any event, he has sent an offhand invitation to them, and he no doubted expects a reply soon.

While such a visit could do more good than harm, it is clear Washington will not accept what is in reality a second-hand invitation until Khrushchev does something constructive to ease tension in such trouble spots as Berlin and Cuba.

Until he does so, there should be no official state visit to Moscow by any leader of a Western nation, because such a visit could only be interpreted as a demonstration of friendship, and might in fact be used by the propagandists as evidence that the West tolerates and even condones Russia's foreign policies.

It should be remembered that the last time Khrushchev invited an American president to Moscow, the invitation was noisily withdrawn as a result of the incident of a fabled U2 plane flying over Russian territory.

What an embarrassment that was to President Eisenhower, and how embarrassing it would be for President Kennedy if the Soviet premier plucked another "incident" out of midair as an excuse for loudly announcing that he was no longer welcome, that the invitation had been withdrawn.

How To Fawn over Photographs

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—One of life's little ordeals is what to do or say when someone shows you a picture of his family.

Just as children like to roll up their sleeves and show their vaccination marks, grownup men like to whip out their wallets and show off photographs of their loved ones at home.

It pays never to leap to premature conclusions when someone suddenly confronts you with a photo and asks you proudly: "Well, what do you think of that?"

The art of the camera hasn't really progressed very far. At first glance it is hard to tell an old barn from a mother-in-law, or an apple tree in bloom from a high school girl in her graduation dress.

The best thing to do is to peer at the proffered photo uncertainly, then exclaim heartily: "My, even without my glasses, I can tell that one is a real corker."

This will please him mightily, and by artful questioning you can elicit from him whether it is a picture of his last family reunion, or only a color photo of an Easter egg basket.

If it is a clear day and you have 20-20 eyesight and you are reasonably certain the photo he hands you is that of a human female under the age of 70, you might say: "Gee, doesn't your wife object to you carrying around a picture of a movie star in your pocket?"

"What do you mean a movie star?" he'll answer. "That's my wife."

And by a single remark of intuitive genius you will have made two lifelong buddies—him and her. You can always be sure of a free meal at their house any time. His wife will probably even be glad to do your laundry for you.

Utmost tact is required when faced unexpectedly by a photo of a squirming infant. The truth is, as every honest person knows, that most snapshots of babies look like an incomplete job in taxidermy.

If you are uncertain of the sex of the child, you give a long sigh of admiration and murmur: "Adorable...so cute...man, that's really worth coming home to at night, isn't it?"

If you are certain the infant is a boy and his brow doesn't slant back too abruptly, it's always safe to observe: "My, what a forehead! That kid's gonna be a real brain. And those shoulders! Just look at those shoulders!"

On the other hand, if you are absolutely sure the infant is a girl, you'll do best if you chuckle and say fondly: "Oh, she'll break a lot of men's hearts when she grows up. I feel sorry for her boy friends already."

And, of course, when both parents hand you a photo of their little darling and simultaneously demand, "Who you think our baby really looks like?", there is only one satisfactory answer: "Both of you. There's no doubt whose baby this is!"

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—That fever chart of the American economy—retail sales—has disappointed the optimists again. Totals dipped in September for the second month in a row. They have been bobbing up and down since April.

That the chart zigged in August and September, when many looked for it to zag, is generally blamed on auto sales. The model changeover season and the lower than usual stocks of the older models on dealers' hands may have led to the dip. Detroit, at any rate, says the new models are attracting good sales.

Optimists still are confident retail sales will turn upward significantly this month and next. But the late spring dip the mid-summer rally, and now the late summer and early fall slump have merely added to the general uncertainty about the general economy's course.

Sales are well ahead of a year ago. But the failure to keep a steady upward course and pace has worried merchants and dealers—a class prone to worry in the best of times.

Making it more disquieting for them, the zig-zagging has been confined largely to durable goods. Sales of soft goods have mostly stayed good and usually on the increase.

Americans are inclined to take the sale of soft goods for granted. They are used to judging good times from bad by the amount of purchases of durable goods—the autos, household appliances and the like which American families buy to improve their standard of living.

And lagged sales of hard good when personal income totals have gone on rising are taken by many to indicate a worry by consumers over their future.

Various polls of consumer opinions and intentions have denied that any such feeling now exists. Consumers are said to be cautious but far from really worried about their future.

Then why the lag in sales of durable goods?

One school of thought is that Americans bought so many gadgets in the 1950s that the demand has slackened naturally and is now confined to an important degree to replacements and to those whose incomes are expanding and bringing them into the still growing middle income class.

Manufacturers striving mightily to bring out ever more advanced models naturally deny there is any such saturation.

Cleveland Labor Bloc Rebukes Rhodes-Backers

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland AFL - CIO Federation of Labor (CFL) was back in time with the Ohio AFL-CIO today after CFL delegates issued a sharp rebuke to leaders who are backing James A. Rhodes, Republican for governor.

The delegates voted almost unanimously Wednesday night reaffirming CFL support for Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, Democrat. At the same time, they condemned the action of Thomas E. McDonald, CFL board chairman, and some other leaders in endorsing Rhodes.

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M. D.

You child has large tonsils. Do they have to come out? Not necessarily.

Tonsils and adenoids are lymph nodes — ordinary swollen glands. At the back of the mouth, they're called tonsils; up behind the nose, adenoids. All lymph nodes filter out germs and poisons and manufacture disease - destroying antibodies.

Lymph nodes grow rapidly until the 7th or 8th birthday. Then they begin to shrivel up.

School - age youngsters are bound to have king-sized tonsils. Unless they cause trouble, you can still use their help when foreign germs or poisons threaten.

Cutting them out is like cutting your own throat. But when tonsils cause more trouble than they're worth, they have to go. Infection may smolder in spite of modern miracle drugs and flare into feverish tonsillitis every week or so.

Plump, healthy tonsils can crowd the throat, leaving no room for food to pass. With this road block removed, the throat becomes a nourishing super-highway with heavy traffic. Junior pours in seconds, thirds and extra snacks between meals — until his weight catches up.

Healthy-looking tonsils can still harbor germs. They may continually drain into tender, swollen glands in the neck or turn every cold into breath-taking asthma.

Again, what medicines can't cure, the scalpel must.

When swollen adenoids clog the back of the nose, Junior will snore and wander about all day with his mouth open—"catching flies".

Giant adenoids may stop up tiny passages from each ear. Unable to drain, smoldering infection explodes into repeated earaches and hearing begins to dim.

Unless swollen adenoids cause trouble, keep them! They'll shrink.

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Walker Deserves Good Treatment By George Sokolsky

If General Edwin A. Walker requires psychiatric treatment, he ought to have the best. There are two sides to General Walker. He has been a brave soldier, with a special capacity for lifting the morale of discouraged troops. He was sent to Little Rock by President Eisenhower to do precisely the job which he denounced in Oxford, Mississippi.

If General Walker is suffering from psychosomatic illnesses, they could be a result of war service. In that event, he is entitled to the best treatment available in this country. The man's war record establishes that. But his mental illness may be medically sure, so that no group may say that he is a scapegoat. If he is suffering from paranoid tendencies, he should be properly hospitalized, but he should not become a political prisoner.

The issue is a simple one: any person can become ill and for mental illnesses there are very big and frightening words. Two wars and the uncertainty of life during and after wars have left their marks on many more persons than is obvious. Certainly at Oxford, General Walker did not act like a soldier or a gentleman. He went wild.

General Walker joined the John Birch Society while he was in charge of troops in Germany. The John Birch Society is anti-Communist and has attracted many Americans to membership. Its weakness has been its inability to discriminate between Communists and other anti-Communists who prefer to combat Communism by different methods. Thus, the John Birch Society got a bad name not because of Communist propaganda against it but because of its assumption that anyone who is not for and of it is a Communist. This, of course, is a nonsensical notion as the record shows.

Those associated with the John Birch Society also tend to search for a vile and vicious conspiracy to make it easy for Communism to take over this country. Hunting for conspiracies by inexperienced, doctrinaire persons is a very dangerous enterprise, particularly by persons who do not understand what Communism is. Many such conspiracy - hunters are sincere; others are just antis.

There have always been antis. General George Washington knew them when he was leading his suffering and starving troops. Antis are human beings who dislike their environment and particularly dislike change. They cannot adjust to change. They burned men and women at the stake in other times, because their ideas did not conform to prevailing ones. The fact that the burned ones turned out to be right did not matter, because, in every generation, there are those who find any difference, any change, any novelty of thought abhorrent.

A man may have been publicly and at personal sacrifice opposed to Communism for 40 years, but if he does not go along with the John Birch Society or if he does not believe that Dr. Fred Schwarz is the greatest anti-Communist on Earth, the Birchers and their friends are liable to believe that he has joined President Eisenhower and Attorney General Kennedy to say nothing of Adlai Stevenson and Ralph Bunche in a conspiracy to turn the United States over to Khrushchev!

The antis are very strong in those areas where racial questions are serious. It is a reflex of their objection to change. Such persons believe that the Western European in the United States is superior to all pigmented peoples, including the darker-skinned Mediterraneans, such as the Italians, Greeks, Syrians and Jews. They tend to be anti - Semitic because, although they may read the Bible, they do not grasp its morality, they eschew history as a bunch of lies. To most of them, the Negro is inferior.

It is not possible to say that all who oppose change are suffering from psychosomatic illnesses; it is possible to say that their adjustments to a changing world are slow and even arrested. Brought up in narrow environments, with inadequate schooling, they know what they like but will not recognize that even so comparatively small an invention as the electric light alters our lives and our thoughts. Imagine what the exploration of space is doing!

I think that three of the most distinguished psychiatrists in the country should be asked to examine General Walker to make sure that he is ill and not a martyr to politics. And if his illness is war-connected, this country owes him a square deal.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. They must be signed by the writer with a complete return address. However the name and address will not be used in the published letter upon request of the writer. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

To The Editor:

The Admitting Office, to me, is a very important department of Berger Hospital.

The impression a patient gets of Berger at the time of admission often forms his opinion of the hospital in its entirety. Therefore, we in this department have a grave responsibility to the community, the doctors, Board of Governors and fellow personnel.

Patients are admitted to Berger according to their priority for a bed, regardless of the administering physician. What happens when we have a full house and are unable to admit them?

Our first step is to check every avenue for the possibility of a patient being discharged. If there is none, we have to call and cancel the reservation.

So often this cancellation brings hardships to patients who thought they would be admitted. Perhaps arrangements had been made to care for the family or maybe they had arranged for time off from their jobs. But our hands are tied regardless of their situation.

We at the admitting office sincerely realize these problems, but we do not have enough beds to serve the community as it should be.

Even more upsetting and heart-breaking are the times when we are forced to tell doctors: "Sorry, no bed available" when he asks for a bed for a patient who is critically ill.

This seriously ill patient could have been you, a member of your family or a member of my family. We are dealing with human life — but often the Berger admitting office has had to refuse as many as five or six requests in one day for beds.

May I present some statistics? The information that follows is a comparison of activities at Berger in 1955 and 1960 and the rate of increase for each.

Admissions: 1,476 — 2,046, 38 per cent; Adult patient days: 9,320 — 12,144, 30 per cent; New-born patient days: 1,635 — 2,119, 30 per cent; Outpatient procedures: 3,828 — 14,121, 295 per cent; X-Ray (outpatients): 1,486 — 2,240, 51 per cent; Emergencies: 792 — 2,042, 158 per cent; Operations: 670 — 986, 47 per cent.

There is no great difference in our patient days or admissions, but if we could add those we had to turn away they would be increased unbelievably.

In 1955 we had 12 practicing physicians in our community. In 1962 we have 14, four of which are in limited practice and one is associated with the Ohio Industrial Commission. This leaves nine. They are the ones who must request the admissions, the outpatient laboratory and x-rays, treat the emergencies and take care of the inpatients, plus treat a full schedule of people through their offices. To me their job is almost impossible.

For the reasons listed, I hope the Berger Hospital expansion and building levy will pass in November. The improvements it will provide are urgently needed.

Dear Abby: It Won't Be Easy

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a husband who refuses to listen to reason? Dad and I have been married 42 years. Our family is married and gone. For the past five years I have been begging my husband to put our house on the market, but he won't budge.

We own this large, two-story, 12-room house, and live in only three rooms of it. Every time I mention selling the house we have a fight. My husband likes this house because it's been home to him for 28 years. But he doesn't have to take care of it. I do. Running up and down the stairs wears me out and the work is killing me. We could sell the house and enjoy life in a bungalow or apartment. Please, Abby, help me convince him.

SLAVE OF THE HOSE
DEAR SLAVE: You need more help than I can give you. If you have friends who have done what you would like to do, enlist their help in selling your husband on the idea. Have them invite you to their new, compact quarters and let your husband see for himself how uncomplicated and carefree life can be in a smaller love-nest.

DEAR ABBY: If a man comes to work looking seedy—I mean with buttons missing, unpressed trousers and shoes that need shining, whose fault is it?

DEAR MAGGIE: If he is married, it's his wife who has a few buttons missing, and it's her fault. If he's a bachelor, he's simply a slob.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of many years became acquainted with a woman. He asked me to join them one evening, which I did. Later he asked me what I thought of her. I told him I thought she looked like a cheap gold-digger, and I wouldn't bother with her if I were him. Well, shortly afterward he married her. I am so embarrassed whenever I see this couple that I don't know what to do. I find myself going out of my way so I won't have to face them. Should I apologize to him? How would you handle this delicate situation? This man's friendship means a lot to me.

TOO FRANK
DEAR TOO: He asked for your opinion and you gave it to him. Don't avoid this couple. And don't apologize unless one of them brings it up. Forget the incident and perhaps he will.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "A MAN WHO WEARS THE PANTS IN HIS FAMILY": I thought the man in the family was SUPPOSED to wear the pants! What's all the shouting about? When a man feels that he has to crouch about "wearing the pants" in his family, you usually have to look under his apron to find them.

MT. PLEASANT GRANGE

Mt. Pleasant Grange No. 2721 met Wednesday evening with worthy master, Galen Mowery in charge. Along with Mowery, other newly elected officers assumed their positions.

During the business session, Mt. Pleasant Grange voted to enter the Community Service Contest for the coming year. Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren

It Won't Be Easy

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a husband who refuses to listen to reason? Dad and I have been married 42 years. Our family is married and gone. For the past five years I have been begging my husband to put our house on the market, but he won't budge.

We own this large, two-story, 12-room house, and live in only three rooms of it. Every time I mention selling the house we have a fight. My husband likes this house because it's been home to him for 28 years. But he doesn't have to take care of it. I do. Running up and down the stairs wears me out and the work is killing me. We could sell the house and enjoy life in a bungalow or apartment. Please, Abby, help me convince him.

SLAVE OF THE HOSE
DEAR ABBY: You need more help than I can give you. If you have friends who have done what you would like to do, enlist their help in selling your husband on the idea. Have them invite you to their new, compact quarters and let your husband see for himself how uncomplicated and carefree life can be in a smaller love-nest.

DEAR ABBY: If a man comes to work looking seedy—I mean with buttons missing, unpressed trousers and shoes that need shining, whose fault is it?

NO PLACE LIKE HOME

Just for a moment, close your eyes and picture the scene in your childhood home that you liked best. Was it the music box in the front room, the grandfather clock, the large, fragrant kitchen? Whatever you are thinking of, your memory is a treasure chest of things you hold dear.

Let your mind wander further. You will remember not only loving scenes and favorite objects, but family and friends, their ways, their thoughts, their talk. God and His goodness were mentioned often. Prayer was a common practice. There was faith and trust and a feeling of security.

Sunday was a special day, and all activities were centered around the church and the home.

Come back to the present a moment. The Church was home to you then! It can be your home now; a place of worship where the heart remembers and rejoices.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Sandusky Judge Cited for Assault

FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—Robert Smith, a deputy sheriff, has filed charges of assault and battery in Sandusky County Common Pleas Court against County Judge George Reinbolt.

Smith said Reinbolt slapped him on the side of the head when the deputy refused to withdraw a charge of reckless operation he brought against the judge last Friday.

Reinbolt pleaded innocent at a hearing Tuesday and was freed under $100 bond. No trial date has been set.

Smith, who patrols the Sandusky River for the sheriff's office, cited Reinbolt in a complaint to the Coast Guard. The charge is now pending.

Just for a moment, close your eyes and picture the scene in your childhood home that you liked best. Was it the music box in the front room, the grandfather clock, the large, fragrant kitchen? Whatever you are thinking of, your memory is a treasure chest of things you hold dear.

Let your mind wander further. You will remember not only loving scenes and favorite objects, but family and friends, their ways, their thoughts, their talk. God and His goodness were mentioned often. Prayer was a common practice. There was faith and trust and a feeling of security.

Sunday was a special day, and all activities were centered around the church and the home.

Come back to the present a moment. The Church was home to you then! It can be your home now; a place of worship where the heart remembers and rejoices.

God

THE CHARACTER OF THE LORD AS REVEALED THROUGH THE WORLD HE HAS MADE, THROUGH THE PROPHETS HE HAS SENT AND THROUGH CHRIST; HIS RELATIONSHIP TO HUMANITY.

Scripture—Genesis 1:1, 27:31; Psalm 145:8-20; Isaiah 40:28-31;
Matthew 6:9; John 4:25, 24; Acts 10:34; 17:22-23; James 1:10;
Revelation 4:11.

By N. SPEER JONES

THE FIRST SET of the basic Christian beliefs we shall study this quarter will, logically, concern God Himself — the Prime Mover of everything else.

The very first words of our Bible tell us a great deal about this Subject. As William Lyon Phelps, famous Yale professor of literature, has said, "The narrative opens like a great symphony"—unlike the bibles of other religions, which sometimes contain much that is "trivial and silly" in their accounts of the world's creation.

James Murphy points out ("Peloubet's Select Notes," p.
383) that this first sentence indicates by assumption the existence of God, for it is He who creates. "It assumes His eternity; for He is before all things; and as nothing comes from nothing, He Himself must have always been." It implies His omnipotence; for He creates the universe of things. It implies His absolute freedom; for He begins a new course of action.

discussed here by James, Isaiah and the author of Psalm 145.
The Hebrew title of the whole "book of Praises" is taken from the title of this psalm, which is alphabetical in form, each verse beginning with a letter of the alphabet. Among the virtues mentioned here and the other two places are His goodness, glory, mercy, generosity, sovereignty, eternity, untiring strength and unchangeableness.

The fact that "Jehovah is good to all" (Psalm 145:9) is what is known as common grace. This is borne out in Acts 10:34, when Peter says God shows no partiality.

The 40th chapter of Isaiah has been said to contain the greatest revelation of God's character in the Old Testament.
The passage from Acts 17 is the beginning of Paul's famous discourse on God to the Greeks in Athens, center of pagan philosophy. He spoke before the Areopagus, a governing council named after the bare, rocky hill just west of the northern rim

GOLDEN TEXT

"Truly I perceive that God shows no partiality."—Acts 10:34.

It implies His infinite wisdom
... for an order of matter and mind can only come from a Being of absolute intelligence.

The Bible also gives preeminent position to the creation of man, as God's culminating work. The word "create" is used not once, but three times in the sentence describing man's origin; furthermore, all His other creative works are viewed as "good," but man's is termed "very good."

It is evident from the narrative of God's creation of the universe, that He cannot be the author of evil; everything He makes is good.

Furthermore, God created absolutely. He used no existing materials to fashion the universe; this is so-called flat creation. The fact that He ordered the universe for a purpose implies a personal God rather than simply a Force, for intelligence and volition are personal attributes.

Other attributes of God are of the Acropolis where it first met. Paul's opening words, "Ye men of Athens," are those always used by the great Greek orator Demosthenes.

The altar inscribed "To an Unknown God" is described by the greatest ancient authority on Greek cities, Pausanias. In the 26th verse Paul doubly wounds Greek pride by saying that God made of one blood every race; like many people today, the Greeks felt that all non-Greeks were barbarians.

John emphasized God's spirituality.
The first verse of the so-called Lord's Prayer (Matthew 6:9) shows God's fatherly relationship to humanity.

The verse from Revelation brings us full circle, back to the idea of God as Creator, and the worship He should receive as a result. This is an essential point to remember in days when man appears to become more and more self-sufficient.

Witness Is Held On $500,000 Bail

NEW YORK (AP)—A Material witness in a kidnap-robbery trial balked on the witness stand Wednesday and was ordered held under $500,000 bail for contempt of court.

The unusually high bail was slapped on Daniel Cohen, 31, of the Bronx, in state supreme court where three men are being tried in the $42,000 abduction and robbery of Mr. and Mrs. John Mosler. He is president of the Mosler Safe Co., Hamilton, Ohio.

Cohen explained his refusal to testify by saying he had given a gun used in the Mosler robbery to "a known killer," adding: "I'm in fear of my life."

Anglican Chief Urges Catholic Policy Change

LONDON (AP)—The archbishop of Canterbury voiced hope today that the Roman Catholic Church, at its current ecumenical meeting, will take a fresh look at some of its policies, which he said offend other Christians.

The archbishop, Dr. Michael Ramsey, said in an interview in the Catholic Herald:

"A good example of this is the question of mixed marriages, where some of the procedures and demands are very painful to Anglicans.

"I am thinking, of course, of the invitation to the future husband or wife to abandon their Anglican faith, and the insistence that the children of the marriage must be brought up as Roman Catholics.

"Another thing that hurts us very much is the principle that converts to the Roman Church should be baptized again, albeit conditionally, as this is a reflection on Anglican baptism—which in fact, you recognize in theory."

The interview, with Catholic Herald Asst. Editor Hugh Kay, was the first ever given by a head of the Anglican Church to a Roman Catholic publication. The Herald is edited for Catholics by members of their own faith, but is not an official organ of the church.

Views on Television - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The television "special," which two seasons ago seemed to be a network fad, now appears to be on the way out.

But this, says CBS vice president Michael Dann, a programming specialist, is but an optical illusion: specials are around this season in just about the same quantity, but nowadays, the vast majority are public affairs shows instead of entertainment.

Dann has been doing some research on the subject. He finds that in 1954-55, when the idea of preempting a regularly scheduled show for a special one-shot really started rolling, there were a total of 55 on CBS and NBC—ABC has never been especially active in this area. Of this total, 46 were entertainment shows, largely variety, and only nine fell in the news and public affairs area.

This season, Dann estimates, CBS and NBC between them will mount 185 specials. Fifty-five will be music, variety and dramatic shows—and a massive 130 will fall into the public affairs area.

"McHale's Navy," ABC's latest contribution to World War II fiction, may come as something of a shock to innocents who think of the war against the Japanese in terms of heroism, tragedy, danger and death.

Judging from the premiere episode Thursday night, war in the South Pacific in 1943 was just a carefree, hilarious romp. By an interesting coincidence, Lt. Cmdr.
McHale—played by Ernest Borgnine—is the commander of a PT boat, who, with his merry men, devoted a half hour to outwitting
the United States Navy. The enemy consisted of the admiral, a pompous and stupid little jerk, and an idiot ensign.

The show seemed a feeble, tasteless try for comedy in the
"Mr. Roberts" vein, but missed by several knots. It seemed, in fact, a little insulting.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Mild weather continued over Ohio Thursday night and cloudiness increased. No rain fell up to sunrise today, however.

At dawn temperatures were as warm as 70 at Toledo, five degrees above the normal high reading. Lunken Airport Cincinnati also reported 70, while Cleveland had 69 and Columbus 62.

Ohio will continue in warm air most of the day, but a cooler mass of air is approaching from the west and may drop temperatures slightly tonight and Saturday.

The approaching cold front may cause some showers or thunderstorms today and Saturday, but they will be well scattered.

The cool air may not penetrate all the way to the Ohio River, but the northern counties will be considerable cooler tonight and Saturday.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS

NORTHERN OHIO — Unseasonably warm weather expected through next Wednesday with temperatures averaging 19 degrees above normal. Normal high 63-65, normal low 42 - 47. Little daily change but briefly cooler about Tuesday. Rainfall will average about one-fourth inch in showers late Saturday through Monday.

SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO — Temperatures will average 7 to 12 degrees above normal.
Normal high 63-73, normal low 43-47. A little cooler over weekend, only minor changes thereafter.
Rainfall will average about one-half inch except about three-fourths inch east central in scattered showers mostly on weekend.

Allocations By State Hit $639 Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state distributed more than $639 million to schools and local governments and persons on public welfare rolls during the last fiscal year—an increase of $45 million over the previous year.

Making the announcement today was Auditor James A. Rhodes, who reported that $16 million of the increase went to school's. Total distributions to schools were $241 million compared with $225 million the previous year.

Rhodes' report also showed auto registration fees paid to counties, townships and municipal corporations up $13 million to $78 million.

Also increasing were gasoline tax payments ($55 million), and total payments under the aid for the aged program. Rhodes reported that these increased even though there were 3,000 fewer persons on the rolls than the previous year. Aid to dependent children showed one of the biggest increases, jumping $7 million to $46 million.

Down $619,000 from the previous year to $50 million were poor relief payments. This was one of the few cases where state distributions dropped from a year ago.

Rhodes also announced he will make the largest gasoline tax distribution to local governments next week when he distributes $3.3 million for cities and villages; $1.8 million for county, highways, and $1 million for township roads. With the October payments, the state will have paid $45.6 million in gas tax money to local governments this year—up $2 million from the same period last year.

God

THE CHARACTER OF THE LORD AS REVEALED THROUGH THE WORLD HE HAS MADE, THROUGH THE PROPHETS HE HAS SENT AND THROUGH CHRIST; HIS RELATIONSHIP TO HUMANITY.

Scripture—Genesis 1:1, 27:31; Psalm 145:8-20; Isaiah 40:28-31; Matthew 6:9; John 4:23-24; Acts 10:34; 17:22-23; James 1:16-17; Revelation 4:11.

By N. SPEER JONES

THE FIRST SET of the basic Christian beliefs we shall study this quarter will, logically, concern God Himself—the Prime Mover of everything else. The very first words of our Bible tell us a great deal about this Subject. As William Lyon Phelps, famous Yale professor of literature, has said, "The narrative opens like a great symphony"—unlike the bibles of other religions, which sometimes contain much that is "trivial and silly" in their accounts of the world's creation. James Murphy points out ("Peloubet's Select Notes," p. 383) that this first sentence indicates by assumption the existence of God, for it is He who creates. "It assumes His eternity; for He is before all things; and as nothing comes from nothing, He Himself must have always been. It implies His omnipotence; for He creates the universe of things. It implies His absolute freedom; for He begins a new course of action."

GOLDEN TEXT

"Truly I perceive that God shows no partiality."—Acts 10:34.

It implies His infinite wisdom... for an order of matter and mind can only come from a Being of absolute intelligence. The Bible also gives preeminent position to the creation of man, as—God's culminating work. The word "create" is used not once, but three times in the sentence describing man's origin; furthermore, all His other creative works are viewed as "good," but man's is termed "very good." It is evident from the narrative of God's creation of the universe, that He cannot be the author of evil; everything He makes is good. Furthermore, God created absolutely. He used no existing materials to fashion the universe; this is so-called creatio ex nihilo. The fact that He ordered the universe for a purpose implies a personal God rather than simply a Force, for intelligence and volition are personal attributes. Other attributes of God are: Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission.

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The television "special," which two seasons ago seemed to be a network fad, now appears to be on the way out.

But this, says CBS vice president Michael Dann, a programing specialist, is but an optical illusion: specials are around this season in just about the same quantity, but nowadays, the vast majority are public affairs shows instead of entertainment.

Dann has been doing some research on the subject. He finds that in 1954-55, when the idea of preempting a regularly scheduled show for a special one-shot really started rolling, there were a total of 55 on CBS and NBC—ABC has never been especially active in this area. Of this total, 46 were entertainment shows, largely variety, and only nine fell in the news and public affairs area.

This season, Dann estimates, CBS and NBC between them will mount 185 specials. Fifty-five will be music, variety and dramatic shows—and a massive 130 will fall into the public affairs area.

"McHale's Navy," ABC's latest contribution to World War II fiction, may come as something of a shock to innocents who think of the war against the Japanese in terms of heroism, tragedy, danger and death.

Judging from the premiere episode Thursday night, war in the South Pacific in 1943 was just a carefree, hilarious romp. By an interesting coincidence, Lt. Cmdr. McHale—played by Ernest Borgnine—is the commander of a PT boat, who, with his merry men, devoted a half hour to outwitting the United States Navy. The enemy consisted of the admiral, a pompous and stupid little jerk, and an idiot ensign.

The show seemed a feeble, tasteless try for comedy in the "Mr. Roberts" vein, but missed by several knots. It seemed, in fact, a little insulting.

Recommended weekend viewing:

Tonight—"Route 66," CBS, 8:30-9:30 (EDT)—The peripatetic series is back on the west coast with an adventure in surf-riding.

Saturday—"The Defenders," CBS, 8:30-9:30—story about problems of adoption when the natural mother wants back an adopted child.

Sunday—"The Campaigns and the Candidates," NBC, 5:55-6:30 p. m.—updating the local political scenes; "Meet the Press," NBC, 6:40-7:30—guest is California's Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Edmund G. Brown, incumbent; Ed Sullivan Show, CBS, 8:30-9:30—guest star: Dinah Shore Show, NBC, 10-11—season premiere of the singer in a one-woman musical program.

CHECKUP FOR PHILIPPINE SPEAKER—In John Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md., for a two-week checkup, Cornelia T. Villareal, speaker of Philippine House, chats with his wife.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Mild weather continued over Ohio Thursday night and cloudiness increased. No rain fell up to sunrise today, however.

At dawn temperatures were as warm as 70 at Toledo, five degrees above the normal high reading. Lunken Airport Cincinnati also reported 70, while Cleveland had 69 and Columbus 62.

Ohio will continue in warm air most of the day, but a cooler mass of air is approaching from the west and may drop temperatures slightly tonight and Saturday.

The approaching cold front may cause some showers or thundershowers today and Saturday, but they will be well scattered.

The cool air may not penetrate all the way to the Ohio River, but the northern counties will be considerably cooler tonight and Saturday.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS

NORTHERN OHIO — Unseasonably warm weather expected through next Wednesday with temperatures averaging 19 degrees above normal. Normal high 63-65, normal low 42-47. Little daily change but briefly cooler about Tuesday. Rainfall will average about one-fourth inch in showers late Saturday through Monday.

SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO — Temperatures will average 7 to 12 degrees above normal. Normal high 63-73, normal low 43-47. A little cooler over weekend, only minor changes thereafter. Rainfall will average about one-half inch except about three-fourths inch east central in scattered showers mostly on weekend.

Allocations By State Hit $639 Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state distributed more than $639 million to schools and local governments and persons on public welfare rolls during the last fiscal year—an increase of $45 million over the previous year.

Making the announcement today was Auditor James A. Rhodes, who reported that $16 million of the increase went to schools. Total distributions to schools were $241 million compared with $225 million the previous year.

Rhodes' report also showed auto registration fees paid to counties, townships and municipal corporations up $13 million to $78 million.

Also increasing were gasoline tax payments ($55 million), and total payments under the aid for the aged program. Rhodes reported that these increased even though there were 3,000 fewer persons on the rolls than the previous year. Aid to dependent children showed one of the biggest increases, jumping $7 million to $46 million.

Down $619,000 from the previous year to $50 million were poor relief payments. This was one of the few cases where state distributions dropped from a year ago.

Rhodes also announced he will make the largest gasoline tax distribution to local governments next week when he distributes $3.3 million for cities and villages; $1.8 million for county, highways, and $1 million for township roads. With the October payments, the state will have paid $45.6 million in gas tax money to local governments this year—up $2 million from the same period last year.

Ohio-Born Cowboy Learns To Live with Heart Disorder

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How to live with a heart condition is demonstrated by Roy Rogers, now doing his first steady work in four years.

A man-sized job it is, starring with wife Dale Evans in a weekly variety hour on ABC-TV Saturday nights. It marks for him the completion of the long road back to a full life after a long period of —for him—relative inactivity.

Roy's life had always been busy. As radio singer, then star of Western movies, rodeos and television series, he was one of Hollywood's biggest money-makers. He also supervised business enterprises and found time for a vigorous outdoor life.

"Then one day about four years ago I was hunting deer in Colorado, about 9,000 feet up," he related. "I had just shot a deer down in a canyon, and I called to the Colorado fellows to bring one of those bicycle affairs to carry it with."

"They came down and loaded it and started up the slope like they were walking on level ground. I followed after them and I started to get pains in my arms. I thought it was the altitude, but the pains continued when I got back home."

Roy consulted a doctor and learned he had an angina, a contraction of the main artery of the heart. Roy explained that he had three big rodeo dates in Canada and six state fairs to play in the East. Cancel, said the doctor.

U.S. Aid Helps Defeat Reds in Latin Nation

Dominican Republic Binds Wounds after 30-Year Dictatorship

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — "My girl and I want to get married," young Ricardo Gil Morales said earnestly. "But my country comes first. There will be some fighting to do."

Violent trouble may be coming soon. It must be met before young men like Ricardo can turn their attention to binding up the wounds inflicted on their nation of 4 million people by 30 years of dictatorship.

"But you can see the hope in their eyes now," says Newell Williams, energetic administrator for the U.S. Alliance for Progress in the Dominican Republic.

This is one country where the alliance seems to be off and running. It seems within reaching distance of its first significant victory in Latin America over communism and Castroism.

The extreme left will not take this lying down. The tough hard core of the Castro-Communists numbers perhaps 70,000 members, disciplined and well organized. Its intention obviously is to throw the little Caribbean nation into violent confusion in advance of national elections scheduled for December.

Communists are believed smuggling arms and ammunition from Cuba to use in a battle to prevent the Dominican Republic from getting on its feet.

"But with or without guns," young Ricardo said, "we will beat them. They have been making most of the noise, but we outnumber them and we are going to make some noise ourselves."

A new slogan is "Basta ya!" Roughly, that is the equivalent of "Knock it off and get to work."

It was the rallying cry shouted to huge crowds in Santo Domingo's Independencia Square last July after violent rioting. It came from Dr. Viriato Fiallo—a physician-philosopher who is running for president under the National Civic Union banner. The chances are he will be elected in the December voting, but there are big problems ahead.

Dr. Fiallo says he is confident that with the new impulse created by the vigorous U.S. aid program, the Communists will be beaten back.

"That impulse is as great for us as the Marshall Plan was for Europe, because we are such a small country, and the force of the program is that much stronger," says 67-year-old Dr. Fiallo, who suffered prison and persecution under the dictatorship of the late Rafael Trujillo.

The Alliance's success thus far has been the more notable because it was accomplished in co-operation with a governing seven-man council. The fact that the council, with all its varying viewpoints, worked at all was a source of astonishment.

"If this country is given another year to work out its problems and get things moving, it will have it made," says Williams.

In the brief time the Alliance program has been in operation there has been noticeable improvement in the economy and standard of living. People are eating more and better. A housing program involving self-help has caught on and captured imaginations.

But, says Dr. Fiallo, everything depends upon establishment of order and political stability, and that will not be easy. The forthcoming elections have drawn 25 political parties. Most are fly-by-night affairs. Only two are really in the contest for the presidency.

The man opponent of Dr. Fiallo's UCN is the PRD—the Dominican Revolutionary Party, headed by Juan Bosch and somewhat more to the left.

School Prayer Confusion May Be Cleared Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court may clear up by next July some of the confusion over what prayers, if any, may be said in public schools or whether Bible verses may be read in the classrooms.

Those questions were not answered in last June's historic decision declaring unconstitutional a prayer supplied by state officials for use in New York State public schools. Many people interpreted this as an outright ban on prayer in the schools and it brought one of the angriest public outcries the court has faced in recent years.

A few weeks ago Justice Tom C. Clark departed from the custom of justices not commenting on the court's rulings and expressed dismay at what he called misunderstanding. All the court decided, he said, was that government cannot take part in the establishment of religion. It was a 6-1 decision and Clark joined in the majority view.

The high tribunal agreed this week to tackle once more this emotion-laden issue of separation of church and state. Specifically, the court will hear sometime in the months ahead appeals from two lower court decisions.

One appeal is by Pennsylvania officials from a decision by a three-judge federal court that the state law requiring Bible reading in public schools violates the U.S. Constitution.

The other appeal is by an atheist mother of an atheist son who contends that a Baltimore, Md., school board regulation calling for opening of school each day with Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer is unconstitutional.

Both the Philadelphia and the Baltimore practices have been attacked despite the fact that children are not required to participate. They may be excused with written permission from a parent or guardian.

Mrs. Madalyn E. Murray, whose son William J. Murray III is now in the 11th grade in Baltimore, told the court in her appeal that her son's non-participation in the exercise caused him "loss of caste with his fellows, (he was) regarded with aversion, and subjected to reproach and insult."

The board's rule says "each school, either collectively or in classes, shall be opened by the reading, without comment, of a chapter in the Holy Bible and or the use of the Lord's Prayer. The Douay (Catholic) version may be used by those children who prefer it. . . ."

This is somewhat similar to the Pennsylvania law, which reads: "At least 10 verses from the Holy Bible shall be read without comment at the opening of each public school on each school day. Any child shall be excused from such Bible reading upon the written request of his parent or guardian."

Edward L. Schempp, a Unitarian living in a Philadelphia suburb, brought the suit on behalf of his children, who attended Abington Township High School.

The answers to these appeals could have a greater impact across the nation than even last June's decision which focused on the New York prayer.

CHARGE AND COUNTER-CHARGE—Interrupted repeatedly by shouting spectators as he spoke before the United Nations General Assembly (left), Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos demanded that the U.N. condemn as an act of war any U.S. blockade of his country. Later U.S. U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson told a news conference (right) at the U.N. that "if the Castro government wants to negotiate a solution of hemispheric tensions," it should lay its "real or fancied" grievances before Organization of American States.

The cowboy, born under the name of Leonard Slygh near Ports-

He gave up hunting for skeet and trapshooting and curtailed his performing to seven or eight television hours a year. Gradually he was able to do more. This summer he and Dale went out for a few fair dates in the East.

"On the way back, I stopped at the Mayo Clinic for a checkup," he said. "The results were excellent. In fact, they told me that unless they had known my past history, they would have thought I had always been in perfect health."

He looks good. He'll be 50 next month, but appears younger. "But I've learned to spare myself," he admitted. "I get plenty of rest."

AP Guesspert Taps Browns To Trip Colts

Red-Hot Redskins Expected To Continue Their Winning Streak

By JACK CLARY

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — What, oh, what has happened to the Washington Redskins of the National Football League? They still are unbeaten, having won three games and tied one.

Gone are the days of having one sure winning pick by figuring the "Skins to lose. Balance may be great for a football league, but it plays havoc on the selectors.

Washington over St. Louis — If you can't lick 'em, join 'em, and 'Skins are for real. Norm Snead has poise at quarterback and team has balanced running, passing and now defense.

Green Bay over Minnesota — Vikings own one of two TDs. Packers have allowed in four victories, and Green Bay wants that back.

New York over Pittsburgh — Giants' home opener last two years have been fiascos, but everyone is healthy, especially quarterback Y. A. Tittle.

Cleveland over Baltimore — Despite so-so pass defense that must race sharp-shooting Colts' Johnny Unitas, Browns too tough against declining Baltimore defense that must stop both Jimmy Brown and passing of Jim Ninozski.

Detroit over Los Angeles — Lions are ready to be taken after tough game with Green Bay, but Rams still not stable enough to do the job, despite expected return of halfback Jon Arnet from injury list.

Philadelphia over Dallas — This will be a real swinger, but the edge goes to Sonny Jurgensen's passing against the Cowboys' young secondary.

San Francisco over Chicago — 49ers beginning to move and should turn tables on Bears.

Boston over Dallas — This one is tonight and the combination of Boston's concrete defense and the experience of quarterback Babe Parilli gives Patriots edge.

San Diego over Buffalo — Rookie John Hadl in the driver's seat now for resurging Chargers, while winless Bills still waiting for his predecessor, Jack Kemp, to get his hand in shape to play.

Houston over New York — George Blanda has more to work with than Lee Grosscup of Titans, who must cope with injured knee that drastically limits mobility.

Denver over Oakland — The Broncos go rolling along at the top of the Western Division behind Frank Tripucka, who is rapidly closing in on first mile gained passing this year.

Cleveland Browns center John Morrow plays trumpet, trombone and baritone horn.

CHS Booster Auxiliary Buys Vaulting Pole

The Women's Auxiliary of the Circleville Booster Club authorized the purchase of a fibre glass vaulting pole for the Tiger track team at their regular meeting last night.

This is the first item the organization has purchased for a Circleville athletic team. They plan to make various purchases for other teams as funds become available and there is a need.

Although the Circleville Athletic Association has already planned to purchase one of the new fibre glass poles the unit felt that an additional one could be utilized to good advantage.

The new type poles are more flexible than the conventional aluminum poles, giving an added boost to the vaulter.

IT WAS announced at the meeting that the group will assist with the Booster Club Fish Fry tonight.

The meeting time has been changed from 7:30 to 8 p.m. the second Thursday of each month.

One of the members of the organization suggested that since powder puffs had been sent to each member of Circleville's starting football team, apparently by Wilmington fans, that the group could make and sell powder puff corsages at the game tonight.

Hit-Hungry Mantle Gives Hurlers Credit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Slumping Mickey Mantle, with only two hits in 18 at bats in the World Series, suggested today the pitchers get a little credit.

"I haven't been feeling better physically in a long time," said the New York Yankee center fielder. "I have been getting good balls to hit and I have felt good swinging."

"You have to give the pitchers credit. They have been pitching very well to us, just like our pitchers have been pitching good to their hitters."

"A lot of the so-called big hitters aren't having much of a series."

Mantle is hitting only .111 but he is doing better than Orlando Cepeda, the San Francisco Giants' slugging first baseman, who batted .096, hit 35 homers and drove in 114 runs during the regular season. Cepeda still is looking for his first hit with a horrible 0-for-12 record. Giant Harvey Kuenn, a .304 batter, also is hitless with an 0-for-8 mark.

Other games on the non-conference schedule are Ashland at Ohio Northern, Youngstown at South Connecticut, Eastern Michigan State at Central State and Bluffton at Findlay. Bluffton's Beavers and Miami are tied for the statewide lead with four straight conquests.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's Buckeyes, on the rebound after being baffled 9-7 by underdog UCLA last week, launch their 50th Big Ten Conference campaign Saturday against twice-beaten Illinois.

The championship contest should be a romp for the powerful Ohioans. The Illini — winless last year — have been trampled by both Washington and Northwestern this season.

The Big Ten fray is one of 22 games on Saturday's slate for Ohio teams.

Another big one is between Miami's Redskins and Purdue at Lafayette, Ind. In four previous tries against the Boilermakers, Miami hasn't won — but neither have the Redskins been blanked by the Hoosier hotshots.

The Miami club has won four straight this season, but the ninth-ranked Boilermakers loom as the toughest test of the campaign.

Two games are scheduled in the Mid-American Conference, seven in the Ohio Conference, three in the Presidents' loop, and one in the Mid-Ohio.

Bowling Green's defending champions go against Toledo in the Mid-Am feature, and the Falcons could move out in front in the standings with an expected win. In the other, Marshall and Kent State battle to determine which gets out of the cellar.

Ohio University (3-0) meets Xavier (2-1) in a rugged non-loop fray at Cincinnati under the Dayton team entertains Louisville in another standout. The Flyers, last in the statewide standings with an 0-4 record, should hit the winning side this time.

The Ohio Conference offers Capital at Kenyon, Denison at Wooster, Ohio Wesleyan at Marietta (N), and Muskingum at Mount Union (N). All but Akron, Wittenberg and Capital have been beaten in league play.

Ohioans meet foreign foes in the Presidents' loop, with Case at Allegheny, John Carroll at Wayne and Thiel at Western Reserve. Sends defiance against winless Wilmington.

70,000 To See Browns-Colts Tilt

CLEVELAND (AP)—A crowd of 70,000 is expected for the important interdivision clash between the Baltimore Colts and the Cleveland Browns Sunday.

The fans will gather to see the two former champions of the National Football League who have split their only two meetings. The Colts won the first one 21-7 in Cleveland six years ago. The Browns captured the 1959 game in Baltimore 38-31 in one of the most spectacular contests as Jim Brown crashed for five touchdowns and the Colts' Johnny Unitas passed for four scores.

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Bulldogs of the United Football league have signed Preston Powell, 230-pound fullback who was a reserve with the Cleveland Browns in 1961.

The former Grambling College star was sold to Dallas during the off-season and the Cowboys sent him on to the Chicago Bears early in the training season. The Bears released Powell last month.

One stroke back were three other pros of the younger set—Tony Lemar of San Leandro, Calif., who won over much this same field in the recent Sahara Invitational at Las Vegas; Butch Baird of Galveston, Tex., and Jimmy Powell, Yorba Linda, Calif.

The 25-year-old Hill, fast gaining stature as a tournament performer, shot a first round 67, five under par.

Detroit Ready For Kentucky

Another Loss Looms
For Michigan Crew

DETROIT (AP)—No longer is the University of Detroit so anxious to climb into football's big time. All the Titans want to do is win a game, beat anybody.

Kentucky, a rival scheduled when Detroit was a bit more ambitious—and successful — invades Titan Stadium tonight. Licked by Army, Navy, Michigan State, Tulane as well as Kentucky in recent seasons when they had respectable records, the Titans now realize they perhaps overextended themselves.

So far this season, the Titans have been beaten by Boston College, Xavier (Ohio) and New Mexico State. Their losing streak continued from last year, is at five.

Kentucky, like Detroit, goes into the game without a victory. But the game appears to be a mismatch anyway. The Wildcats have tied Florida State and lost close games to two powers in its Southeastern Conference, Auburn and fifth-ranked Mississippi.

The Kentucky-Detroit clash is one of three major games on the Friday night college football schedule. In the others, Mississippi State is at Tulane and UCLA bidding for a place in the top ten rankings, entertains Colorado State University.

The Uclans made an impressive season's debut last week when they spilled Ohio State, then the nation's top ranked team, 9-7 after three times sopping the Buckeye attack on the one. The upset, enough to topple Ohio State from first to tenth, still wasn't enough to get UCLA into the AP's top ten.

Eight of the top ten will be in action on Saturday, with only fourth-ranked Southern California and Mississippi idle.

Alabama, the defending national champion and No. 1 again after the Buckeye bounce, should win as it pleases against Houston at home. Texas, No. 2, plays its annual Southwest war with Bud Wilkinson's Oklahoma Sooners at Dallas, and third-ranked Penn State seeks its fourth straight victory against once-beaten Army at West Point.

Louisiana State, ranked sixth, has a night game with unbeaten Miami, and seventh-ranked Washington plays Oregon State at Portland. Baylor goes against eighth-ranked Arkansas, ninth-pegged Purdue faces Miami of Ohio, and Ohio State takes out its UCLA disappointment against hapless Illinois, which hasn't won a game since 1960.

Dade Paces Tiny Tigers To 14-0 Win

Steve Dade paced the Circleville Junior High School football team to a 14-0 win over the Lancaster Sherman gridders yesterday on the Circleville gridiron.

Dade scored both Tiger touchdowns and one conversion try, good for two extra points.

His first score came in the second quarter on a three yard plunge. His attempt for the conversion was good and the tiny Tigers went into an 8-0 lead.

The score remained unchanged until the final period when the Tiger halfback exploded for a 25-yard scoring jaunt. The try for the extra points failed.

Pagan Called 'Iron Man' of Giants' Roster

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—They call shortstop Jose Pagan the San Francisco Giants' iron man with good reason. He has played about 270 games of baseball annually without a vacation since 1955.

Yet none thought the 165-pounder with the wide range and good throwing arm would be the Giants' hitting hero in the World Series.

While some others talk of being tired, the little guy from Puerto Rico says, "I like to play in the big games."

He's hitting an even .500 in the series with 7 hits in 14 at bats, including Wednesday's solo home run off Ralph Terry.

"I guess I'm just lucky," he says with an accent. "And I'm feeling real good. I'm okay."

Jose estimated he played 100 games of winter league ball in Puerto Rico before reporting to spring camp. After playing the exhibition schedule with the Giants, he appeared in all but one of the 165 regular season and playoff games, and in the five World Series contests against the Yankees.

Mickey Fisher, Brandeis University's new athletic director, coached Tommy Davis, Los Angeles' great outfielder, in basketball at Boys High, Brooklyn.

Penn State football coach Rip Engle first played football in college at Western Maryland.

Giants Issue Report Cards

Plus, Minus System
Evaluates Players

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Every member of the National League Champion San Francisco Giants gets a report card at the end of the year. Good marks can mean more money.

While waiting today for the sixth game of the World Series with the New York Yankees, Manager Avin Dark explained the "plus and minus" system he uses to grade every player on the team.

"It is our way of keeping records on the little things that win games, but don't show up in the regular averages."

"For example, if we have a base runner on second base with none out, if the batter moves him to third, where he can score on a fly ball to the outfield, he gets a plus. In the averages, all he gets is a time at bat. Of course, if he doesn't move him over, he gets a minus."

"A lead off walk in an inning gets a plus. Base runners who take the extra base get a plus, as do fielding plays."

"Another plus is scored for getting a runner home from third with one out. If the batter gets the runner home from third with two out, he gets even more credit."

"But a home run in the eighth or ninth inning, when we are ahead or behind by eight runs means nothing, and it gets no score."

"A home run that wins a game gets the biggest plus score. Willie Mays won six games this year with home runs in the late innings."

"Catcher Ed Bailey also won six games with home runs, even though he only hit 17."

Oddly enough, Dark said that certain bonehead base running plays are not scored as minuses. "We feel that when a fellow makes a mistake like that, the fault lies with us, the manager and the coaches. We haven't drilled enough on that play."

Mickey Fisher, Brandeis University's new athletic director, coached Tommy Davis, Los Angeles' great outfielder, in basketball at Boys High, Brooklyn.

Their Winning Streak

NEW YORK (AP) — What, oh, what has happened to the Washington Redskins of the National Football League? They still are unbeaten, having won three games and tied one.

Gone are the days of having one sure winning pick by figuring the "Skins" to lose. Balance may be great for a football league, but it plays havoc on the selectors. Washington over St. Louis — If you can't lick 'em, join 'em, and "Skins" are for real. Norm Sneed has poise at quarterback and team has balanced running, passing and now defense.

Green Bay over Minnesota — Vikings own one of two TDs. Packers have allowed in four victories, and Green Bay wants that back.

New York over Pittsburgh — Giants' home opener last two years have been fiascos, but everyone is healthy, especially quarterback Y. A. Tittle.

Cleveland over Baltimore — Despite so-so pass defense that must face sharp-shooting Colts' Johnny Unitas, Browns too tough against declining Baltimore defense that must stop both Jimmy Brown and passing of Jim Nintowski.

Detroit over Los Angeles — Lions are ready to be taken after tough game with Green Bay, but Rams still not stable enough to do the job, despite expected return of halfback Jon Arnet from injury list.

Philadelphia over Dallas — This will be a real swinger, but the edge goes to Sonny Jurgensen's passing against the Cowboys' young secondary.

San Francisco over Chicago — 49ers beginning to move and should turn tables on Bears.

Boston over Dallas — This one is tonight and the combination of Boston's concrete defense and the experience of quarterback Babe Parilli gives Patriots edge.

San Diego over Buffalo — Rookie John Hadl in the driver's seat now for resurging Chargers, while winless Bills still waiting for his predecessor, Jack Kemp, to get his hand in shape to play.

Houston over New York — George Blanda has more to work with than Lee Grosscup of Titans, who must cope with injured knee that drastically limits mobility.

Denver over Oakland — The Broncos go rolling along at the top of the Western Division behind Frank Tripucka, who is rapidly closing in on first mile gained passing this year.

Cleveland Browns center John Morrow plays trumpet, trombone and baritone horn.

CHS Booster Auxiliary Buys Vaulting Pole

The Women's Auxiliary of the Circleville Booster Club authorized the purchase of a fibre glass vaulting pole for the Tiger track team at their regular meeting last night.

This is the first item the organization has purchased for a Circleville athletic team. They plan to make various purchases for other teams as funds become available and there is a need.

Although the Circleville Athletic Association has already planned to purchase one of the new fibre glass poles the unit felt that an additional one could be utilized to good advantage.

The new type poles are more flexible than the conventional aluminum poles, giving an added boost to the vaulter.

IT WAS announced at the meeting that the group will assist with the Booster Club Fish Fry tonight. The meeting time has been changed from 7:30 to 8 p.m. the second Thursday of each month.

One of the members of the organization suggested that since powder puffs had been sent to each member of Circleville's starting football team, apparently by Wilmington fans, that the group could make and sell powder puff corsages at the game tonight.

Hit-Hungry Mantle Gives Hurlers Credit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Slumping Mickey Mantle, with only two hits in 18 at bats in the World Series, suggested today the pitchers get a little credit.

"I haven't been feeling better physically in a long time," said the New York Yankee center fielder. "I have been getting good balls to hit and I have felt good swinging."

"You have to give the pitchers credit. They have been pitching very well to us, just like our pitchers have been pitching good to their hitters."

"A lot of the so-called big hitters aren't having much of a series."

Mantle is hitting only .111 but he is doing better than Orlando Cepeda, the San Francisco Giants' slugging first baseman, who batted .306, hit 35 homers and drove in 114 runs during the regular season. Cepeda still is looking for his first hit with a horrible 0-for-12 record. Giant Harvey Kuenn, a .304 batter, also is hitless with an 0-for-8 mark.

So far this season, the Titans have been beaten by Boston College, Xavier (Ohio) and New Mexico State. Their losing streak continued from last year, is at five.

Kentucky, like Detroit, goes into the game without a victory. But the game appears to be a mismatch anyway. The Wildcats have tied Florida State and lost close games to two powers in its Southeastern Conference, Auburn and fifth-ranked Mississippi.

The Kentucky-Detroit clash is one of three major games on the Friday night college football schedule. In the others, Mississippi State is at Tulane and UCLA bidding for a place in the top ten rankings, entertains Colorado State University.

The Uclans made an impressive season's debut last week when they spilled Ohio State, then the nation's top ranked team, 9-7 after three times sopping the Buckeye attack on the one. The upset, enough to topple Ohio State from first to tenth, still wasn't enough to get UCLA into The AP's top ten.

Eight of the top ten will be in action on Saturday, with only fourth-ranked Southern California and Mississippi idle.

Alabama, the defending national champion and No. 1 again after the Buckeye bounce, should win as it pleases against Houston at home. Texas, No. 2, plays its annual Southwest war with Bud Wilkinson's Oklahoma Sooners at Dallas, and third-ranked Penn State seeks its fourth straight victory against once-beaten Army at West Point.

Louisiana State, ranked sixth, has a night game with unbeaten Miami, and seventh-ranked Washington plays Oregon State at Portland. Baylor goes against eighth-ranked Arkansas, ninth-pegged Purdue faces Miami of Ohio, and Ohio State takes out its UCLA disappointment against hapless Illinois, which hasn't won a game since 1960.

60,000 To See Browns-Colts Tilt

CLEVELAND (AP)—A crowd of 60,000 is expected for the important interdivision clash between the Baltimore Colts and the Cleveland Browns Sunday.

The fans will gather to see the two former champions of the National Football League who have split their only two meetings. The Colts won the first, one 21-7 in Cleveland six years ago. The Browns captured the 1959 game in Baltimore 38-31 in one of the most spectacular contests as Jim Brown crashed for five touchdowns and the Colts' Johnny Unitas passed for four scores.

Golfers Bunched In Bakersfield Test

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Thirty-six par-breaking golfers, led by young Dave Hill of Jackson, Mich., were crowded within a margin of four strokes today as the $40,000 Bakersfield Open swung into the second round.

The 25-year-old Hill, fast gaining stature as a tournament performer, shot a first round 67, five under par.

One stroke back were three other pros of the younger set—Tony Lemar of San Leandro, Calif., who won over much this same field in the recent Sahara Invitational at Las Vegas; Butch Baird of Galveston, Tex., and Jimmy Powell, Yorba Linda, Calif.

Dade Paces Tiny Tigers To 14-0 Win

Steve Dade paced the Circleville Junior High School football team to a 14-0 win over the Lancaster Sherman gridders yesterday on the Circleville gridiron.

Dade scored both Tiger touchdowns and one conversion try, good for two extra points.

His first score came in the second quarter on a three yard plunge. His attempt for the conversion was good and the tiny Tigers went into an 8-0 lead.

The score remained unchanged until the final period when the Tiger halfback exploded for a 25-yard scoring jaunt. The try for the extra points failed.

Pagan Called 'Iron Man' of Giants' Roster

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—They call shortstop Jose Pagan the San Francisco Giants' iron man with good reason. He has played about 270 games of baseball annually without a vacation since 1955.

Yet none thought the 165-pounder with the wide range and good throwing arm would be the Giants' hitting hero in the World Series.

While some others talk of being tired, the little guy from Puerto Rico says, "I like to play in the big games."

He's hitting an even .500 in the series with 7 hits in 14 at bats, including Wednesday's solo home run off Ralph Terry.

"I guess I'm just lucky," he says with an accent. "And I'm feeling real good. I'm okay."

Jose estimated he played 100 games of winter league ball in Puerto Rico before reporting to spring camp. After playing the exhibition schedule with the Giants, he appeared in all but one of the 165 regular season and playoff games, and in the five World Series contests against the Yankees.

Penn State football coach Rip Engle first played football in college at Western Maryland.

Giants Issue Report Cards

Plus, Minus System
Evaluates Players

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Every member of the National League Champion San Francisco Giants gets a report card at the end of the year. Good marks can mean more money.

While waiting today for the sixth game of the World Series with the New York Yankees, Manager Avin Dark explained the "plus and minus" system he uses to grade every player on the team.

"It is our way of keeping records on the little things that win games, but don't show up in the regular averages."

"For example, if we have a base runner on second base with none out, if the batter moves him to third, where he can score on a fly ball to the outfield, he gets a plus. In the averages, all he gets is a time at bat. Of course, if he doesn't move him over, he gets a minus."

"A lead off walk in an inning gets a plus. Base runners who take the extra base get a plus, as do fielding plays."

"Another plus is scored for getting a runner home from third with one out. If the batter gets the runner home from third with two out, he gets even more credit."

"But a home run in the eighth or ninth inning, when we are ahead or behind by eight runs means nothing, and it gets no score."

"A home run that wins a game gets the biggest plus score. Willie Mays won six games this year with home runs in the late innings."

"Catcher Ed Bailey also won six games with home runs, even though he only hit 17."

Oddly enough, Dark said that certain bonehead base running plays are not scored as minuses.

"We feel that when a fellow makes a mistake like that, the fault lies with us, the manager and the coaches. We haven't drilled enough on that play."

Mickey Fisher, Brandeis University's new athletic director, coached Tommy Davis, Los Angeles' great outfielder, in basketball at Boys High, Brooklyn.

Tiger Frosh Lose Grid Tilt, Howard Dade

The freshman gridders of Circleville High School dropped a 14-0 contest at Lancaster Sherman yesterday.

The loss was also marred by a serious ankle injury to Howard (Hodge) Dade, brother of Garold Dade. Young Dade will miss the remainder of the season.

Freshman coach Bill Mosure said the ankle was broken and also dislocated at the joint.

The freshman team, with only 14 members at the beginning of the season, is now down to 11. They have been seriously handicapped by injuries.

GEORGE RAMEY, bruising fullback for the frosh, suffered a shoulder injury in their last outing which has kept him out of action. Mosure said Ramey should be ready for action by next Tuesday's game with Lancaster Ewing.

Both Sherman scores came on long runs. The first, in the second quarter, came when the Lancaster fullback, after he had been hit, lateraled to a halfback who romped 65 yards for the TD. In the third period the winners returned a punt 55 yards to score again.

Mosure reported that other than those two defensive lapses, the Tigers played a good ball game. Offensively they missed the running of Ramey.

Famed golfer Bobby Jones retired from active competition in 1930 at the age of 28—but he had been golfing for 19 years.

FISHING TIPS for all

SLIGHT WINDS ARE GOOD....

WHEN WATER IS RAILED UP, FISH SEEK DEEP HOLES AWAY FROM FEEDING AREA BECAUSE RILING STIRS UP SILT, WHICH GETS INTO THEIR GILLS.

Agents Bar Woman Who Kissed JFK

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A woman who raced up and kissed President Kennedy during his 1960 campaign has been barred from the Niagara Falls airport where Kennedy will land Sunday enroute to Buffalo on a political visit.

The Secret Service in Buffalo made the ruling Wednesday after Mrs. John S. Kruk, 32, wife of an Army lieutenant colonel, asked permission to have the President autograph a picture taken of her kissing him on Sept. 28, 1960. The picture received national attention.

Mrs. Kruk and her husband had been invited by Mayor Chester A. Kowal of Buffalo to sit with him during Kennedy's reception at Niagara Falls Municipal Airport.

The Secret Service gave no explanation of its decision.

Mrs. Kruk said she had no intention of trying to kiss the President on Sunday.

"Kissing a presidential candidate and a President are two very different things," she said, "especially when he happens to be my husband's commander in chief."

DEMOCRAT, 6th DISTRICT

PEOPLE OF THE 6TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT!

Everyone knows we need help from Washington. The man who is our agent there now cannot possibly get what we want and need because he is an avowed enemy of those in control. It is not common sense to send an enemy to represent us.

Things happen swiftly in Washington and the right kind of emissary can bring some of the great installations and contracts here, which are going elsewhere at the present time. Rasor has the ability and will work in a friendly atmosphere. He is the right type of agent to represent us, to get results.
